MU Dean Presents Awards

Outstanding Journalists Are Honored

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—For distinguished service in journalism 10 alumni of the University of Missouri school of journalism today received honor awards.

As part of Journalism Week exercises, Dr. Earl F. English, dean of the school, presented the awards to:

George R. Lamade, president and general manager of Grit, national weekly small-town newspaper, Williamsport, Pa. For development of Grit and aid to hundreds of thousands of boy-merchants who helped distribute the newspaper.

Morris E. Jacobs, owner and president of Bozell & Jacobs Inc., Omaha, Neb. For pioneering and leadership in integrated advertising and public relations services.

Irwin A. Vladimir, board chairman of Gotham-Vladimir Advertising Inc., New York. For campaigning for better understanding among Western Hemisphere peoples, for work for Voice of America broadcasts and furthering high standards of American advertising.

Dorothy Roe, women's editor of the Associated Press, New York. For pioneering work in women's page news and high standards of editing.

Elmer W. Lower, director of operations, Columbia Broadcasting System, New York. For his CBS news work and career as reporter, press association executive, photo journalist, Washington and foreign correspondent and governmental service overseas in psychological warfare.

John W. Colt, managing editor of the Kansas City Star. For ideals and understanding of news needs of a metropolitan area and counsel to and interest in journalists, particularly beginners.

Lewis W. Roop, editor and publisher of the De Soto Press and the Jefferson Republic, De Soto, Mo. For high quality of his newspaper, leadership in community affairs and devotion to his calling.

Millard Cope, president and publisher of the Marshall (Tex.) News Messenger. For his career as a reporter, editor and publisher in the Harte-Hanks newspaper organization; leadership in newspaper organizations, including the presidency of the Southern Newspaper Publishers Assn. and current membership on the Associated Press board of directors; his sponsorship of a news and feature idea service to fellow editors.

Henry La Cossitt, free lance writer of New York. For work in magazine journalism, motion picture and radio fields, and competence as a reporter of the American scene.

Everett C. Norlander, managing editor of the Chicago Daily News. For 35 years of public service in accurate gathering and editing of news on that paper; his demonstrated conviction that to seek the truth a newspaper must be vigorously independent.

Administration Asks For Another Increase In Price of Stamps

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration has asked Congress for another one-cent increase in first-class letter and airmail postage.

If approved, the proposal would boost postage on a first-class letter to 5 cents and on airmail to eight cents.

Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield estimated such an increase would bring in an additional 355 million dollars a year. The current operating deficit of the Post Office Department is estimated at more than 500 million dollars a year.

In his budget message to Congress in January, President Eisenhower indicated he would ask for higher rates to help balance Post Office Department books. Many congressional Democrats predicted at the time there wasn't much chance for further postal increases.

Election Is Held; MPS Representative Is Guest Speaker

Mrs. Marjorie Garansson, Broadway Arms, was elected president of the Business and Professional Women's Club at the dinner meeting Thursday night at the Bothwell Hotel. Mrs. Garansson is a member of the firm of Rosencrans & Garansson Insurance Agency.

Other officers elected were: First vice-president, Mrs. Ann Brown; second vice-president, Mrs. Marguerite Scott; secretary, Mrs. Delta Mae Russell; treasurer, Mrs. Mary Jane Wilson; auditor, Mrs. Mildred Bowman; chaplain, Mrs. Dorothy Huddleston; custodian, Mrs. Jessie Baker; historian, Mrs. Lavina Coontz; parliamentarian, Mrs. Lucille White; sergeant-at-arms, Mrs. Mildred Goddard; director, Mrs. Shirley Wagner.

The speaker of the evening was James S. Allen, Lee's Summit, Missouri Public Service, who was presented by the finance committee, of which Mrs. Ena Killingsworth is chairman.

Allen talked on the atom and stated that for many thousands of years men have wondered about the making of the universe, and since about 1800 the basic unit has been called the atom. In 1900, he said, Prof. Einstein worked out the mathematics on paper.

The breaking of the atom was tremendous, because of the amount of energy it released. Matter and energy, he pointed out, are the same and can be transferred back and forth.

Allen explained the steps leading up to the breaking of the atom, and told of the atom bomb which had to be controlled so it wouldn't all blow up at once.

Some of the elements from the breaking of the atom, he went on to say have been used in medicine, such as radium for the treatment of cancer and other things. It is put in fertilizer and for various other uses.

When an atom bomb is exploded there is a radio-active fallout and they now are getting excited about the bad effects of this fallout.

He Would Boycott Talks At Summit

Signing of Treaty Would Be Answered In Similar Fashion

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower will refuse to go to a summit conference if the Russians carry out their threat to turn East Berlin over to the East German Communists.

He will take the same stand if the Soviets sign a separate peace treaty with puppet East Germany.

Any such one-sided Soviet action in the next few weeks undoubtedly would wreck the Big Four foreign ministers conference due to begin in Geneva Monday.

This American attitude became known authoritatively a few hours before Secretary of State Christian A. Herter's scheduled take-off for pre-conference strategy talks with the British and French foreign ministers.

Herter himself already has served notice that the Russians must match concession for concession to end the danger of war. Even as Herter arranged to leave, the three Allies were reported already arguing with the Soviets over where to sit to discuss the German deadlock.

In Geneva, Soviet diplomats insisted the talks take place around a round table. Western diplomats were holding out for a square table.

Despite pressure for a summit talk regardless of progress in Geneva, Eisenhower was reported insisting the foreign ministers first make concrete gains in easing the Berlin crisis and other German problems.

This means, informants said, that mere agreement at Geneva on a time, place and agenda for a summit meeting would not be enough to convince him that a conference with Russia's Nikita Khrushchev would be worth while.

Survey Made for Weather Warning Signals Wed.

A survey has been completed by a Civil Defense engineer from Battle Creek, Mich., for the location of the weather warning signals. The recommendation made was Sedalia is in need of four such warning signals and their locations were picked.

However, it was reported the engineer did state the downtown signal was not extremely necessary, but if one could be obtained, an over lapping signal would be better than just the bare necessity.

Mrs. Peg-ee Hewitt Homan, Civil Defense director in Sedalia, accompanied the engineer and they made their report to Mayor Abe Silverman.

An engineer from the Federal Co., stated that should his firm be accepted to make the installation it was possible they could be up and ready to go on May 30.

Children Swallow Pills and One Dies

CHERRYVILLE, Mo. (AP)—Pills prescribed for a man before his death two years ago killed Judy Lea, 9, yesterday and her 4-year-old sister is in a hospital.

The children found the pills, for high blood pressure, in the attic of their home here. Two other children of Mrs. Helen G. Lea ate some of the pills but did not become ill, she said.

Judy became violently ill and was dead on arrival at a Rolla hospital. Her younger sister, Brenda Lea, is recuperating at St. Louis Children's Hospital.

Men Charged In Rape Case Enter Pleas

Moan Goes Up In Gallery Crowded With Spectators

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—Four white men charged with raping a Negro college girl pleaded innocent at their arraignment today.

A moan went up from the gallery crowded with Negroes as the men entered their pleas. The outcry was quickly suppressed by a call for order in the court.

The trial was set for May 27. Sheriff Bill Joyce had announced previously that all four had confessed to the mass rape.

One of the court-appointed defense attorneys, Harry Michaels, objected to the early trial date, saying he wanted more time to prepare his case. But Circuit Judge W. May Walker overruled his objections.

Pleas of the four were delayed about an hour while attempts were made to provide them with attorneys.

None of the men had lawyers of his own at the start of the proceedings, although the wife of Willson T. Collinsworth later arranged for an attorney for him.

The gallery was packed with Negro spectators and the courtroom floor with white onlookers.

The four, two teen-agers and two in their 20s, were indicted Wednesday by a grand jury five days after the 19-year-old coed said she was taken to a lonely patch of woods and raped repeatedly. All have confessed.

The maximum penalty for rape is death, but if a jury recommends mercy the sentence can be life imprisonment or a lesser term at the discretion of the judge.

The men, all residents of Tallahassee, are Patrick Scarborough, 20; Ollie Stoutamire, 16; David Ervin Beagles, 18; and Willson T. Collinsworth, 24.

Elderly Farmer Dies In Fire at His Home

SALEM, Mo. (AP)—An elderly farmer burned to death early today but his wife escaped from a two-story log-type home by anchoring a sheet to a bed and sliding to safety.

Dead is Elsie Cotner, about 65, of near Salem. His wife, who suffered shock, said she thought her husband was going to use the same method of escape but he apparently collapsed.

Tractor Overturns, Kills Its Driver

CARROLLTON, Mo. (AP)—A tractor overturned into a ditch and killed E. B. Glaze, 44, today. He had been plowing on his farm four miles northwest of Carrollton.

A son, who was also in the field, became aware his father was missing and found him crushed under the tractor.

Donald Quarles Is Dead

Body Is Found At His Home By Chauffeur

WASHINGTON (AP)—Deputy Secretary of Defense Donald Quarles, engineer-businessman and second ranking civilian in the Pentagon since 1957, died unexpectedly today. He was 64.

A chauffeur sent to Quarles' home to drive him to an early morning television broadcast was unable to rouse him. A relative and officials were summoned quickly and efforts were made to revive him. Apparently he had been dead for some hours, however.

The cause of death was not immediately established.

Quarles was alone in his home at the time. Mrs. Quarles was in Chicago. He had attended a dinner Thursday night and friends said he showed no sign of illness when he left about 11 p.m.

Quarles frequently had been acting as a civilian chief during absences of Secretary Neil H. McElroy. He had been mentioned as a possible successor to McElroy, who has announced he is leaving late this year.

If McElroy should go ahead with his plans to quit, one name in speculation will be that of Wilfred J. McNeil, assistant secretary of defense specializing in money matters. McNeil came to the Pentagon in 1948 under the late Secretary James Forrestal.

Another name in speculation will be that of Fred Seaton, a former assistant secretary of defense and now secretary of the interior.

President Eisenhower, notified of Quarles' death, ordered flags on federal buildings flown at half staff.

The President issued a statement expressing shock and "a keen sense of personal loss." On behalf of himself and Mrs. Eisenhower, he extended sympathy to Mrs. Quarles and the family.

Quarles was a personable man, slightly built at about 140 pounds, with graying hair. He dressed conservatively and looked younger than his years.

He had been well received at the Capitol where he was due for another appearance today as a witness before a Senate Appropriations subcommittee for the administration's defense budget.

He had a quick humor and wit, one of the understatement type, which helped him over any rough spots in dealings with such committees.

He was born in Van Buren, Ark., July 30, 1894, the son of a dentist.

Quarles was an official of the Western Electric Co. and a resident of New Jersey when he entered government service.

He was vice president of Western Electric and president of Sandia Corp., a subsidiary which operates the Sandia Special Weapons Laboratory at Albuquerque, N.M., for the Atomic Energy Commission.

Include Kaysinger Project

State Makes a Big Capitol Push For Flood Control, Power Funds

WASHINGTON (AP)—Missourians made big pitches in Washington yesterday for more money for three flood control and power projects in their state—Table Rock power dam and reservoir on the White River near Branson, Stockton reservoir on the Sac River in Cedar County, and Kaysinger Bluff reservoir on the Osage at Warsaw.

They made personal appearances, presented communications and filed petitions with two congressional subcommittees.

The Eisenhower administration adopted a policy of providing no money for new starts on such projects in the 1960 fiscal year starting July 1.

It did recommend two million dollars for more work on Table Rock, $150,000 to continue the planning work on Stockton and $150,000 to continue planning work on Kaysinger Bluff.

Some of the Missouri leaders asked Congress to disregard the administration's "no new starts" dictum.

Art Sindt of Warsaw, president of the Osage Valley Assn., and Dr. Guss Salley, mayor of Warsaw, asked members of the Senate Appropriations Committee to

Tells of 15-Year Ordeal

FBI Informer Out in Open; Charges Union Infiltration

CHICAGO (AP)—An FBI informer whose 15-year pose as a Communist brought him insults, a beating and the scorn of acquaintances, says the Reds have infiltrated the United Packinghouse Workers Union throughout the nation.

Joseph A. Poskonka, 57, of Chicago, threw aside his disguise Thursday when he told the House Un-American Activities Committee of the years of abuse he took from persons who thought he was a Communist.

He hasn't been able to find a job in two years.

His voice was choked with emotion as he told of being fired, how irate neighbors smashed windows in his home, and of the insults his wife, children and 15 grandchildren suffered during his pose as a Red.

Poskonka was identified as a top Communist leader in the Packinghouse Workers Union at a House Un-American Activities hearing in 1952.

Shortly after that, he testified, he walked into a tavern owned by a relative.

"Someone pointed me out to a soldier as a Commie and the soldier walked over and punched me in the jaw and knocked me down," he said.

Rep. Edwin E. Willis (D-La.), acting chairman of the committee, told newsmen Poskonka had been thoroughly investigated by the FBI and according to the FBI his testimony was thoroughly reliable.

Cloudiness, Showers Dominate the Weather

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Cloudiness and light showers dominate the weather outlook for Missouri today and tomorrow.

The weather bureau said occasional showers will fall in the west this afternoon and tonight and continue in that area tomorrow with thunderstorms. Eastern Missouri may expect showers tomorrow.

Continued cool weather was forecast, with tomorrow's highs in the 70s.

A flood of emotional relief engulfed Poskonka's wife, Antoinette, 55, now that he has dropped his disguise.

"I was worried. I was ashamed. How would you feel if people thought your husband was a Communist?" she said.

Poskonka told the committee "I thank the United States for giving me a chance to serve the government. Now maybe I'll be able to get and keep a job without the Red stigma attached to me."

He read into the record a list of union officials who he said were Communists.

State Health Officials to be Here on May 27

There will be representatives from the Missouri State Health Department in Sedalia on May 27 to look into Sedalia's water system—and Spring Fork Lake.

An "off-the-cuff" remark was ventured that fishing or making the Spring Fork Lake a recreational park at this time will entail more than just rules and regulations. It was indicated that such a step will mean a costly expenditure for Sedalia on improving further the system of purification.

However, nothing officially has been given out, nor have any inspections been made, or any recommendations ventured forth.

The representative or representatives, it was learned to meet with the Public Works Commissioners who oversee the water system, made an inspection of properties and at that time informed the commissioners what might be necessary.

A member of the Board indicated it could result in the necessary expenditures of several thousands of dollars running possibly as much as $300,000. The company at present has been making improvements in the filter system, making changes from time to time as money became available.

When she reached him, he said, "It was a shark."

"There was blood all around us," Miss O'Neill continued.

"I was scared. I didn't know what to do, but I knew I couldn't leave him."

"So finally I told him: 'The only way I can do it is if you lie still on your back. Lie back and relax.'"

"He didn't scream after that. The pain must have been awful but he didn't complain."

After telling the story Miss O'Neill was treated for shock and taken home.

Coed Braves A Shark To Save Youth

Fatally Wounded Youth Dies Later Despite Her Effort

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A brave coed swam out into the Pacific Ocean Thursday and tugged ashore a youth who had been fatally wounded by a shark.

Albert Kogler, who died 2½ hours after the attack, had first warned Shirley O'Neill back to the beach by yelling: "It's a shark! Go back! Go back!"

But when he cried for help the attractive brunette swam back and pulled him to Baker Beach, just west of Golden Gate Bridge.

Both were students at San Francisco State College and both just 18.

Kogler was still conscious but incoherent when sped to Letterman Army Hospital where he died of shock and loss of blood despite emergency surgery. Doctors said his left arm was nearly ripped from the shoulder and he had deep gashes on his neck, right arm and back.

The pair had gone for a late afternoon dip on an unusually warm day and were treading the water when the youth screamed his first warning.

Miss O'Neill, a San Franciscan, said she recalled seeing a heavy, dark body break the surface near Kogler.

"I saw Albert struggle and he couldn't make any progress," she said. "He's a good swimmer, so I knew he must have been hurt badly. I couldn't leave him."

When she reached him, he said, "It was a shark."

"There was blood all around us," Miss O'Neill continued.

"I was scared. I didn't know what to do, but I knew I couldn't leave him."

"So finally I told him: 'The only way I can do it is if you lie still on your back. Lie back and relax.'"

"He didn't scream after that. The pain must have been awful but he didn't complain."

Recall Threat Faces School Segregationists

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Three Segregationist members of the Little Rock School Board today faced the threat of recall in the wake of a purge of 44 teachers in the city's integration-troubled school system.

About 400 patrons of the Forest Park Elementary school Wednesday night shouted approval of a plan to seek a recall election against Board President Ed I. McKinley and members Robert Laster and Ben Rowland.

McKinley, Laster and Rowland, acting after three other board members walked out of a meeting in protest, voted Tuesday not to renew the contracts of 44 teachers, including the Forest Park Principal, Mrs. Frances S. Wood.

Acting as the Forest Park Parent-Teacher Assn., the group first adopted resolutions censuring the three segregationist board members for the purge and commending Mrs. Wood. Then acting as school patrons they voted to circulate the recall petitions under a segregationist-backed 1958 law, designed to facilitate removal of board members suspected of integrationist tendencies.

The three have refused to give specific reasons for the purge, except to say that some teachers were fired for "remarks they made about integration."

Joseph Charles Imhauser Rites

One of the most largely attended funeral services in a considerable period of time in Sedalia was the rites for Joseph Charles Imhauser, at Sacred Heart Catholic Church at 9 a.m. Friday.

The Rev. Francis Laudick, parish priest, officiated at the mass and following gave a brief and impressive talk referring to his family being with him when the end came at the Summers' farm lake northeast of Sedalia near Beaman Monday evening.

On Thursday at 8 p.m. at the McLaughlin Funeral Chapel, where the body remained until time for services, the rosary was recited by a gathering of relatives, parishioners and friends.

Pallbearers at the services were John Thomas, Tom Miller, Donald Gochenour, Jack Hawkins, Herbert Mittelhauser and Max Bane, the last named being from Pacific, Mo.

Burial was in Calvary Cemetery.

Ray Thompson

Ray Thompson, 69, of 408 North Hurley, died at the family home at 2:30 a.m. Friday. Survivors include his wife.

The body was taken to the McLaughlin Funeral Chapel.

Ben C. Lutjen

Ben C. Lutjen, 70, died unexpectedly at his home in Cole Camp at 10 p.m. Thursday. Services will be held Sunday at 1:15 p.m. at the Eickhoff Funeral Home, where the body was taken, and at 1:30 p.m. Sunday at the Trinity Lutheran Church in Cole Camp, with the Rev. Walter Dierking to officiate.

Elmer Paul Hickcox

Elmer Paul Hickcox, 76, retired custodian of the California post office, died at Latham Sanitarium, California, at 3:30 a.m. Friday after being a patient there since Thursday.

He was born April 1, 1883, near Russellville, son of John and Mary Hart Hickcox.

He was twice married, his first wife having been Maude Bybee in 1904, she preceding him in death. On June 8, 1927, he married Genevieve Hainen, who survives, as do: Two sons, Harold Hickcox, Chillicothe, Mo., and Dr. John P. Hickcox, Kansas City; two stepchildren, Mrs. Irene Cason, St. Louis, and Bob Clark, St. Louis; four grandchildren; four step-grandchildren; and a brother, Malcolm Hickcox, California.

Parole Breaker Is Returned to Kansas

A worried parole breaker was turned over to Kansas authorities by the Pettis County Sheriff's Office Thursday.

Bobby Lee Copus, 21, a six foot three inch, 200 pounder from Hutchinson, Kansas, was returned to Hutchinson by the transportation officer of that city.

Copus was hitchhiking east on highway 50 in April, stopped in Sedalia long enough to write some bogus checks, then continued eastward.

When he arrived in Jefferson City he walked into the headquarters of Troop F of the highway patrol and told the patrolmen that he had broken parole in Kansas and cashed some bad checks in Sedalia. He said worrying about these two acts had prompted him to give himself up.

The highway patrol notified the Pettis County Sheriff's office of Copus' surrender and the Sheriff brought him back to Sedalia where he was held until Kansas authorities came for him.

He had four great-grandchildren.

The body was taken to the McLaughlin Funeral Chapel where funeral services will be at 3:30 p.m. Saturday, the Rev. Carl Opp to officiate.

Burial will be in Crown Hill Cemetery.

Carrel Edward Lane

Funeral services for Carrel Edward Lane, 40, former Sedalia, who died at Joplin Monday, will be held at the Ewing Funeral Home at 3 p.m. Saturday. The Rev. Floyd Buntbach, pastor of the First Assembly of God Church, will officiate.

Pallbearers will be William Dillon, Richard Lilly, Harold Chiles, Jr., Robert Mabry, Archie Hughes and Cecil Shull.

Burial will be in the Olive Branch Cemetery.

Mr. Lane is survived by: His wife, Mrs. Pearl Lane, Joplin; his mother, Mrs. Ella Meyer, 408 South Brown; his father, William E. Lane, 1023 East Fourth; three sisters, Mrs. Nadine Wehmeyer, 1023 East Fourth, Mrs. Imogene Franklin, 506 South New York, and Mrs. Agnes Sipes, 1023 East Fourth; two brothers, Archie Lane, Houston, Tex., and Forrest Lane, Jane, Mo.; and two daughters and one son by a previous marriage, Mrs. Milford Elery, Mrs. James Mata, Kansas City, Kan., Eddie Lane, Tulsa, Okla.

The body will be brought to Sedalia Friday night and will be at the Ewing Funeral Home.

Sound Takes Spotlight At Lions Meeting

The Sedalia Lions Club this week heard William E. Barnes, demonstration engineer for the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., speak on the subject "This World of Sound." Stereophonic and hi-fidelity sound recording methods were used in connection with his subject.

In his talk he discussed early and current methods for intensifying sound and explained how these developments have benefited the broadcasting and telephone industries. He gave actual demonstrations of hi-fidelity and stereophonic sound.

Using special equipment, Barnes brought the whistle of a jet plane, the noise of a train and sound of a ping-pong game into the same room.

In the demonstration Barnes featured a reproduction of the first long distance telephone call made in 1876 and a demonstration of the improvement in quality of the telephone transmission over the past 75 years.

The speaker was introduced by Leon K. Whitney, program chairman.

Guests were N. B. Pitcairn, manager of the local telephone office of the club; Jack Allgaier of George James and Bert Heacock of Mr. Whitney.

Tom Baker, president, conducted the meeting.

Legion Is Celebrating Anniversary

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The American Legion, its seed planted in France in the twilight of the First World War, is celebrating its 40th anniversary.

Praised for service to veterans the community, the Legion also has been criticized on charges of ultra-nationalism, governmental meddling and too much convention horseplay.

But its critics cannot deny the influence and power of the Legion with its 2,814,000 members.

The U.S. Army high command provided the spur for the birth of the Legion.

After Germany had been defeated, discontent arose in the American Expeditionary Force. The war was over and the doughboys wanted to go home.

The Army high command, seeking to rub out this discontent, called 20 National Guard and Reserve officers to a Paris meeting aimed at finding ways to end the soldiers' grumbling. There was talk and some recommendations.

But some officers were thinking farther ahead.

One was Lt. Col. Theodore Roosevelt Jr., son of the 26th President. Roosevelt had been thinking of a veterans' organization long before the high command moved to still the foot soldiers' complaints.

With Roosevelt the prime force, the 20 men formed a unit and spread the word that a meeting would be held March 15, 1919 in Paris.

Some 1,000 officers and enlisted men flocked to Paris to a caucus, March 15-17, and the Legion was on its way.

In the United States, there followed an intensive campaign to acquaint veterans with the proposed organization. In St. Louis on May 6, 1919 the advance committee of each state made plans for a general caucus.

On the afternoon of May 8th, Roosevelt called the caucus to order.

Immediately, there was a stampede to elect him permanent chairman, against his wishes. He promptly resigned.

Roosevelt was said to have felt that the Legion would be hurt by having a person with such a well-known name as his at its helm. Finally elected chairman was Henry D. Linsley of Texas.

The Legion was chartered by Act of Congress and the charter convention was held in Minneapolis Nov. 10-12, 1919.

Matter of FACT

No one knows when or where irrigation was first practiced, but it was probably among the Egyptians. On old monuments, dating back 4,000 years, are pictures of men bailing water out of the Nile to pour over their thirsty fields. In Assyria, Babylonia, China and India, also, irrigation was practiced thousands of years ago. The Greeks irrigated their fields and the Romans started the systems of Italy, among the best in the world.

'Dead' Man Tells About His Survival

CHARLESTON, S. C. (AP) — "The doctors wouldn't have given a plugged nickel for my life!"

Thus John Arnold Doscher, Charleston businessman, recalled a grim incident 32 years ago when he was left for dead by two highway robbers in Florida.

His comment was prompted by the confession in Kansas City of Wayne Ellsworth Newton that he thought he killed a man in February of 1927 near West Palm Beach and wanted to get it off his conscience.

Newton, 54, is serving a seven-month term at the city prison farm in Kansas City for petty larceny and drunkenness.

Doscher, who now operates a small whisky store in Charleston, said he was held up by two men in a touring car. The gunmen wore masks and forced Doscher, then a salesman, to halt his car. One man grabbed his wallet, containing $400. One shot him in the chest with a .25 pistol. They fled, leaving him on the deserted road to die.

Doscher said he managed to flag down a passing motorist who took him to a hospital in West Palm Beach. At Lakewood, near the larger city, Doscher said an officer bent over him and told his rescuer:

"Fella, you don't need a hospital for this man. He's already dead."

But at the hospital, Doscher lingered between life and death for days before recovering. He said the bullet hit at a broadside angle in his chest, grazed the heart, shattered several ribs and emerged from his left chest.

"About one in a million would survive such a wound," said Doscher.

His feelings over the shooting have mellowed with time. "I have no grudge against him," he said. "If his conscience forced him to confess, he's probably suffered enough."

Corky Kelly Tests Self; Finds Ability

CARLISLE, Pa. (AP) — "I guess I'm proudest of the fact I did it on my own."

That's often a teen-ager's way of letting you know he's tested himself and found that he has ability.

In this case, however, it means a bit more.

For the remark was made today by Corky Kelly, the 19-year-old son of a famous father whose heroic death guaranteed the future of his then infant son.

On Wednesday Corky received news that he had earned appointment to West Point by passing stiff competitive examinations.

He didn't have to put himself to the test. His father was Capt. Colin P. Kelly Jr., the nation's first air hero of World War II. Seven days after Capt. Kelly was killed in action President Roosevelt paid an enduring tribute to the gallant pilot in a letter to the President of the United States in 1956.

He asked that President "to consider the merits of an American youth of goodly heritage—Colin P. Kelly III—for appointment as a cadet in the U.S. Military Academy at West Point."

Corky was assured of a start in life, and it was a start that he grew up to want, but not quite on such easy terms.

"I guess I could have gotten my appointment without taking the examinations," he said today. "But I didn't want it that way. I wanted to prove that I could do it on my own. If I wasn't qualified, I didn't think it would be right to take a place from somebody else who was."

He'll enroll in the Point's Plebe Class on July 7.

"I'm not sure exactly what I want in a career," he said, "but I do know that I want to go to West Point."

Killer Hanged As Britons Protest Action

LONDON (AP) — Ronald Marwood, a 25-year-old cop killer, was hanged today in Pentonville Prison while hundreds of Britons milled about the gates protesting the execution.

The crowd outside stood an all-night vigil, and inside the jail prisoners rioted for half an hour demanding that the hanging be called off.

The execution took place only 200 yards from the home of the man convicted of murdering a policeman—one of the few crimes that can get the death penalty under Britain's modified capital punishment law.

In the crowd of about 1,000 outside the prison were some carrying placards reading "save Marwood," "revenge is contrary to justice" and "is Marwood really guilty?"

The condemned man's pretty 20-year-old wife Rosalie waited in an apartment only 200 yards from the prison and read over and again the last letter from her husband.

Gold Mining At Ft. Knox

Years ago Fred Allen, making fun of radio giveaway shows, promised a "winner" of his own mock contest: "You will be left alone at Ft. Knox with a shovel for 20 minutes."

For a long time we've had so huge a gold reserve tucked away there that it seemed more a topic for humor than anything else. But what's been happening lately to our great gold store isn't very funny, says Bruce Blossat, who comments on this subject as follows:

We still have more than 20 billion dollars worth on hand. But last year we lost 2.3 billion, and lately the outward drain to other countries has been resumed. Some 180 million went abroad in just the last two weeks.

The main reason for this flow is that we are running a trade deficit with the rest of the world. For many years our exports heavily overmatched the things we bought abroad. Steadily we were chided to buy more foreign goods so our friends elsewhere could get the dollars to pay for their purchases from us. But now it's the other way around.

Gold will take flight also if a currency weakens and induces a fear among foreign holders in this country. The prospect that inflation, arrested for the most part in recent months, may burst new bonds, could in the end accelerate the outward flow.

If enough gold goes, we sooner or later will find our trade and tourist travel position sharply handicapped. Fortunately, 20 billion dollars makes a stout backlog and we're a long way from critical trouble.

Still, the pace of the outflow of gold is sufficient to warn us of two things: We must guard our currency against the further ravages of inflation, and we must find means to build our export markets to higher levels to balance the intake of goods from abroad. It is wholly possible that in recent times we have been pricing ourselves out of the market for many of our products which ought to sell well overseas.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Harry Truman a Fascinating Guide

By DREW PEARSON

INDEPENDENCE, MO. — A guided tour through the Truman library by the man who so vigorously molded American history is a fascinating experience. Harry Truman knows every picture, every memento, every book in his library, and keeps up a running fire of humorous, caustic comment about men and events. It's like rolling back the pages of history.

The tour was shortly before Mr. Truman's 75th birthday. The former president talked rapidly.

"We played a little joke on Winston Churchill," he said, pointing to a photo of Churchill and himself. "He didn't realize the picture was taken standing in front of a painting of the old USS Constitution defeating the British Guerriere in the War of 1812."

"It's one of my most prized possessions," added Mr. Truman, and when I deciphered Churchill's scrawled inscription I could understand why. It read:

"To President Truman whose decisive strike against aggression in Korea turned the fortunes of the free world to sure hope of peace."

We walked on. Truman stopped before a huge map of the Midwest, highlighting its rivers and reservoirs.

"That's the Pick-Sloan plan for flood control," he said. "When that's finished there'll be no more floods in the Midwest. General Pick and I worked it out despite the opposition of the Chamber of Commerce."

Picture of Dalai Lama

Near the map was a collection of presidential trophies—a bear's foot, canes from various Democratic conventions, souvenir plates featuring Truman's picture, and the replica of a heavy chain.

"That's just a collection of trifle," said the former president, "except for that chain. My father used one like that to haul logs in the early days of Missouri."

In the spacious entrance of the library was a bronze bust of FDR and the table used in San Francisco on which the United Nations charter had been signed a few weeks after Truman became president. On the sides of the wall were glass cases containing more famous reminders of recent history. One featured a set of Bibles from many lands. In another were three gold swords and two daggers, encrusted with rubies and emeralds, gifts from King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia.

"This is the rarest picture of all," said Mr. Truman, pointing to a gift from the Dalai Lama of Tibet—a photo of the Lama himself. Alongside it was a scarf worn by the Dalai Lama, a picture of General De Gaulle, and another of President Bustamante of Peru.

Thought For Today

MANKIND'S GREATEST PROBLEM

Thanks to the spread of civilization, there are very few savage tribes left in the world that still shoot their enemies with bows and arrows!

They get tanks and machine guns from the more civilized nations.

In this modern, progressive age, it is probable that World War II killed more people than in all the previous wars of history combined.

In the Revolutionary War, from Lexington to the surrender of Cornwallis, about seven years, our battle deaths totaled 4,435; in the War of 1812, 2,260; in the War with Mexico, 1,733; in the Spanish-American War, 385; and in the Civil War, which was the bloodiest in history up to then, we lost 140,414.

In World War II, we lost from battle wounds, 291,557. All of the above figures were of combatants. Few American non-combatants were killed. Total "killed and died" for all participating nations was 8,538,315. Available data does not disclose how many of these were non-combatants. However, they died.

Total casualties, killed, wounded and missing of all nations in World War II came to 37,508,686. Many wounded recovered, and many of the missing survived, but the total killed was probably at least one-third of this number, or 12,000,000.

If President Eisenhower and the leaders of other nations can bring this butchery to an end, they will become the greatest benefactors the human race has ever known.

Neighbor, they need our prayers.

Diplomatic Fog Over Soviet Balk

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Christian A. Herter —with small hope and a deliberate diplomatic secretiveness—sets out today for the Western foreign ministers meeting with the Soviets at Geneva next Monday.

This will begin a series of talks which grew out of Premier Nikita Khrushchev's demand last November that the Big Three Western Allies get their troops out of West Berlin by May 27. If the talks blow up, there may be serious trouble ahead.

It seems too much to hope for any agreements at Geneva. Herter himself said in a radio-television talk to the nation Thursday night:

"I do not go to Geneva with great expectations. Negotiating with the Soviets does not warrant much optimism."

But if the American, British and French foreign ministers can get along with the Soviets at Geneva without vituperation or propaganda, there may be a summit meeting later this year between President Eisenhower and Khrushchev.

Herter explained—but only in the most general terms, leaving details vague—that he and the other Westerners would propose to Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko who is, in effect, only a messenger boy for Khrushchev.

But what happens if the Soviets balk? Will the West yield some ground? Perhaps. But it was at this point that Herter deliberately created a diplomatic fog, either because the Allies are not agreed on what to yield or because they want to keep the Soviets guessing.

"We will not deviate from our basic principles," Herter said. "But we are willing to negotiate about their applications, provided that concessions from us are matched by equivalent concessions from the Soviet Union."

Such concessions already have gained the diplomatic description of "fall-back positions" if the Soviets won't buy the initial demands but show signs of talking business if the West yields on some points.

One of the unhappy features of this meeting—before it starts—is the possibility, much speculated upon recently, that the Allies may be fairly well agreed on their initial demands but not at all on concessions they might make.

For this reason, the Soviets may try to split the Allies with proposals of their own. The Western proposals were agreed on by the American, British, French and West German foreign ministers last week in Paris.

Because the Westerners hope the talks with the Soviets at Geneva would be, as Herter put it, business-like and not a propaganda exercise, the Western foreign ministers didn't, and Herter didn't reveal their proposals in detail.

He said they would lay it down for the Soviets at Geneva. He outlined this much—hardly a revelation, since it already had leaked out—of what the west would suggest to Gromyko:

1. Reunification of Germany, with the understanding it would not be done suddenly but would take time to work out.

2. Then some kind of arms control in Central Europe but not by itself since each step in this kind of program would have to be linked with a similar forward step in the reunification of Germany.

3. And finally a free Berlin. But —until the other two programs were carried out the Allies would insist on their rights in Berlin. But when Germany was unified Berlin could be considered free since it would be the capital of a reunited Germany.

This kind of program would take years to work out. It's been called a package deal. It's unlikely the Soviets will buy it. What they have demanded is that the Allies get their troops out of Berlin and sign a peace treaty with East Germany.

Khrushchev has already made it clear he wants no part of a unification plan that might deprive Communism of East Germany. It's a foregone conclusion the West won't buy any unification that lets Communism swallow West Germany.

In short: The most it seems reasonable to expect from the Geneva meeting is talk. If this meeting goes well, it may be the beginning of many other long-drawn-out talks. But if these initial Geneva talks blow up, hold your hat.

Things in this world may get ugly.

Dr. Jordan Says

Attack On Mental Illness Grows In Effectiveness

By Edwin P. Jordan, M. D.

It is commonly estimated that about one person in every 10 in North America suffers from some mental or emotional disorder which needs psychiatric treatment.

This is a staggering statistic, but there are also many hopeful signs.

For one thing, many of these disorders are mild and yield comparatively easily to present-day methods of treatment. For another, new or improved methods of treatment have become available, or are in the offing.

Many important points are brought out in the booklet entitled "Basic Facts About Mental Illness," distributed by The National Association for Mental Health.

Most mental illness, it states, falls into one of two major groups: namely, the neuroses and the psychoses.

People with neuroses are those who have full contact with reality, but this contact is faulty. Their principal symptom consists in increased anxiety and tension.

The psychoses are more serious since such persons behave irrationally and lose touch with reality. There are many varieties, of which schizophrenia, manic, depressive psychosis, senile psychosis, involutional psychosis and results of hardening of the arteries of the brain are probably the most common.

Needless to say, the treatment of the neuroses is simpler than the treatment of the psychoses. However, the latter in many instances can be attacked with increasing success.

Attack on the true mental disorders, or psychoses, involve three main principles: changing the environment so as to alter or remove as many factors as possible which aggravate the illness; attempting to influence the illness by attacking the patient's thoughts and emotions by such means as psychoanalysis, individual psychotherapy, play therapy and group treatment; and finally, attacking the illness by working on the machinery of the patient's actions, feelings and thoughts.

Examples of the latter are familiar to most readers and include shock treatment, treatment with drugs such as tranquilizers, and psychosurgery.

All of these are becoming increasingly effective.

The whole problem of mental illness involves not only treatment, but attempts at prevention. The maintenance of mental health should be constantly cultivated, of course.

Methods of preventing most forms of mental illness are still not available, but it is not unlikely that some break-through will come before long. Recent research suggests that this may be along chemical lines.

In the meanwhile, all of us should recognize the importance of mental health and mental illness. And we should be greatly encouraged by the increasing chances of recovery for many of those who suffer some form of mental breakdown.

Price High For Doctrine Of U.S. Not to Strike First

By JOSEPH A. DEAR
Of Our Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Midas is the monicker of one of the sensational new missile defense systems now under study and development in the Pentagon.

The Midas system employs infra-red ray sensing devices on earth circling satellites. These sensing devices respond to the heat created by enemy missiles blasting off. In responding, the sensing devices activate information relaying equipment also on the satellite.

Detection of enemy missiles at launching would practically double the time span in which our retaliatory forces could react. According to the experts, in-flight detection of enemy missiles would give our forces from ten to fifteen minutes time. Because our retaliatory forces undoubtedly have a high priority rating as targets, any forces not airborne in this time span today would be in danger of destruction.

The Midas system might stretch the time span in which we could react to 30 minutes. Those extra minutes could be vital. For a vulnerable retaliatory force can't deter attack.

But the price of those extra minutes will be staggering. Earth circling satellites aren't cheap. The sensing devices will cost a small fortune. No other country, except perhaps Russia, could pay so much for 15 minutes. Certainly the stingy King, for whom the new system is named, would have gone broke if time had cost him as much.

The cost of ever more expensive warning systems, that yield an ever diminishing return, may become too costly for even the United States.

Russia could afford the Midas system, maybe. The point of it all, though, is that Russia doesn't have to invest in this type of military hardware. Because the Communists know we won't strike first. That simplifies their planning beyond reckoning.

It also reduces the amount they have to spend on arms. If Russia had to build a machine for attack and defense, Communist military bill would double.

The burden might be more than the Russian economy could stand. And if that were so, the disarmament discussions might become more realistic. That's another reason why the "we can't strike first" doctrine should be modified.

Its modification could reduce our military budget increase that of Russia, and as a result, lead to tension-easing agreements.

Make No Mistake, We Are Better Off Than Before

By FAYE HENLE

Do you feel almost 100 per cent more secure than you did five years ago?

This is what I asked my husband recently.

"I don't know what you're talking about," he quipped, asking in the next breath: "What did you buy today?"

What prompted my question was no major purchase but instead a batch of figures that came in the morning mail. These figures explain a lot — our willingness to buy on credit today almost anything we care to own and the economists' certainty of continued prosperity far into the future.

The story these figures tell is this: regardless of death, disability, old age retirement or unemployment, the American family will enjoy a measure of unparalleled future security unless this built-in security is obliterated by all out inflation.

This year, American families faced with any of the above circumstances will receive more than 34 billion dollars under various security programs. This is exactly twice as much as they would have received in 1929.

The source for these figures is the Institute of Life Insurance, and its president, Holgar J. Johnson, points to the improved status of family financial security by comparing a family situation today with that of 30 years ago. Says he:

"In 1929 this family would have had $4,500 of life insurance, workmen's compensation for job injury, but no pension, health insurance, unemployment benefits, nor social security. They would have had a home equity of about $2,000, approximately $1,200 in savings to cover all emergencies and about $500 after food, shelter, clothing and taxes."

"Today the equivalent family would probably have $11,000 in life insurance, a pension plan to provide more than $100 monthly, a broad program of hospitalization, surgical and medical expense, possibly major medical protection, workmen's compensation, unemployment benefits up to $30 weekly, social security benefits for survivor family of up to $254 monthly, retirement benefits under social security for self and wife up to $174 monthly, a home equity of $5,000, savings for emergencies of some $5,000 and an annual balance of income over food, shelter, clothing and taxes of some $2,000."

"You probably want to know how we compare with this family," my husband replied, quickly answering: "Very well."

"This is not exactly what I was thinking," I said, "but of the future."

"If as a nation we continue to increase these benefits at the same rate during the next five years, as in the past five," he answered grabbing the slide rule, "by 1963 we will be receiving an average annual 67 billion dollars in benefits. The chances are however, that the increases will be considerably greater since more of us will qualify for pensions, since more will buy life, health and personal liability insurance. And social security benefits are scheduled to rise."

Greatest increase, a full 185 per cent in the period 1933-58, has been in social security, old age, survivorship and disability payments followed by a 113 per cent gain in uninsured pensions, a 110 per cent gain in health insurance, a 66 per cent gain in personal liability insurance and almost a 59 per cent gain in life insurance coverage.

Next to social security payments of 8.5 billion dollars last year, the 5.8 billion paid out by life policies ranked second and continued to play the dominant role in the individual's private emergency fund payments.

Approves for Sedalia Centennial Group Finds Services Are Successful

The Centennial Association, after inquiry in several cities, has procured definite information to the effect that centennial religious services had been exceptionally successful.
A committee was appointed composed of the Rev. D. Warren Neal, chairman; the Rev. Francis Laudick, Abe Rosenthal, Clinton Muller and the president of the Ministerial Alliance for 1960, the Rev. Walter Niles, with the idea of inducing the ministers of Sedalia to prepare sermons on such subjects as the "Faith of the Pilgrims," or development of religion in Sedalia during the first century.
As an example, the threads in the life of a most remarkable man and the founder of Sedalia, Gen. George R. Smith, read like romance. Born in 1804 in Virginia, his father a rugged old-time Baptist preacher, moved to Kentucky as a baby, educated in law, a southerner instilled with anti-slavery sentiment, married at 23, Gen. Smith, after a business experience

Confirmation Class Presented At Immanuel

This year's confirmation class will be presented for their testimony in questions and answers at Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed Church (United Church of Christ) Sunday during the regular worship.
Members of the class are: Jane Gray, Sue Skaggs, Sandra Sutter, Kenneth Bersano, Wayne Linhardt, Robert Nagel, and Richard Oehrke. On this Mother's Day Sunday the second of four offerings for the Church Window Fund will be received.
The regional ministers of the United Church of Christ will meet at Immanuel Church, Monday, at 11:30 a.m.
In observance of National Family Week, a Family Banquet will be held at Immanuel Church Tuesday, 6:30 p.m. Members and friends of the church are invited to attend. So that adequate food might be prepared all attending are requested to secure a reservation from one of the following by Sunday: Mrs. Herbert Winebrenner, Mrs. Michael Wolff, Lierman, or Mrs. Edwin Bruening.
In addition to the banquet with all its trimmings, there will be fellowship singing, program, and a former pastor, the Rev. Oscar Rumpf, now professor at Eden Seminary, Webster Groves, will speak. A free will offering will be received.
The Varied Interest Club will meet at the home of Miss Edna Mae Kirchhofer, 1100 South Monticello, Wednesday, 7:30 p.m. She will be assisted by Mrs. Frieda Nelson and Mrs. Marjorie Wright. Immanuel Women's Choir practices on Thursday, 7:30 p.m.

Members of the class are: Jane Gray, Sue Skaggs, Sandra Sutter, Kenneth Bersano, Wayne Linhardt, Robert Nagel, and Richard Oehrke. On this Mother's Day Sunday the second of four offerings for the Church Window Fund will be received.
The regional ministers of the United Church of Christ will meet at Immanuel Church, Monday, at 11:30 a.m.
In observance of National Family Week, a Family Banquet will be held at Immanuel Church Tuesday, 6:30 p.m. Members and friends of the church are invited to attend. So that adequate food might be prepared all attending are requested to secure a reservation from one of the following by Sunday: Mrs. Herbert Winebrenner, Mrs. Michael Wolff, Lierman, or Mrs. Edwin Bruening.
In addition to the banquet with all its trimmings, there will be fellowship singing, program, and a former pastor, the Rev. Oscar Rumpf, now professor at Eden Seminary, Webster Groves, will speak. A free will offering will be received.
The Varied Interest Club will meet at the home of Miss Edna Mae Kirchhofer, 1100 South Monticello, Wednesday, 7:30 p.m. She will be assisted by Mrs. Frieda Nelson and Mrs. Marjorie Wright. Immanuel Women's Choir practices on Thursday, 7:30 p.m.

Approves for Sedalia

The Centennial Association, after inquiry in several cities, has procured definite information to the effect that centennial religious services had been exceptionally successful.
A committee was appointed composed of the Rev. D. Warren Neal, chairman; the Rev. Francis Laudick, Abe Rosenthal, Clinton Muller and the president of the Ministerial Alliance for 1960, the Rev. Walter Niles, with the idea of inducing the ministers of Sedalia to prepare sermons on such subjects as the "Faith of the Pilgrims," or development of religion in Sedalia during the first century.
As an example, the threads in the life of a most remarkable man and the founder of Sedalia, Gen. George R. Smith, read like romance. Born in 1804 in Virginia, his father a rugged old-time Baptist preacher, moved to Kentucky as a baby, educated in law, a southerner instilled with anti-slavery sentiment, married at 23, Gen. Smith, after a business experience

CMRA Action at Thunderbowl

Taylor Carries Big Lead Into Saturday Night Race

Going into Saturday night's races at Sedalia's Thunderbowl Speedway, Ken Taylor of Slater will be holding a commanding 240 point lead in the Central Missouri Racing Association point derby.

The races at the Sedalia track will get underway with time trials at 7:45 o'clock Saturday night. Including time trials, there will be nine events on the program with 40 modified stock car drivers participating.

One week ago Taylor trailed Torch Aleshire of Moberly by 25 in the point race, but the Slater Speedster won two and finished second in three CMRA sanctioned races to move ahead for the season. Aleshire is still second.

Roy Hibbard of Marshall displaced Aubrey Teckemeyer for third spot, with the latter dropping to fourth. Columbia's Walt Sorrels continued his upward surge, moving from eighth to fifth. Buster Wilson, another Columbian, took over sixth and Russ Hibbard of Slater sagged to seventh.

Campy's Nite Shatters All Set Records

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Campy's Nite" was a tremendous, record breaking event.

A turnaway crowd of 93,103 — paid — packed Memorial Coliseum to benefit Roy Campanella, the Los Angeles Dodgers' paralytic-stricken star, and to watch the Dodgers play the New York Yankees Thursday night.

It was just an exhibition, won by the world champions 6-2.

But the roaring crowd surpassed baseball's previous all-time attendance high. That was the 86,288 who saw the fifth game of the 1958 World Series in Cleveland between the Indians and the old Boston Braves.

It was a night of emotion, of sentiment, good action for an exhibition.

Thirty-seven-year-old Campy drew a thunderous, standing ovation when he was wheeled by the Dodgers' ex-captain, Pee Wee Reese, onto the floodlit green diamond.

Neatly dressed in a brown business suit, his head topped with a blue Dodger cap, Campy said, via a loudspeaker to the hushed crowd:

"Thank you, ladies and gentlemen. I want to thank each and every one from the bottom of my heart.

"This is something I'll never forget.

"I thank God that I am here living to see it. Thanks a million."

Once again the stadium rocked with applause as Pee Wee wheeled Roy back to his place behind a screen near the Dodger dugout.

Unofficially, it was the consensus that Campanella, besieged with medical bills since his auto smashup 18 months ago, would get around $60,000.

Dodger Vice President E. J. (Buzzie) Bavasi said that after 10 per cent rental for the Coliseum was taken from the gross, the two clubs divided the receipts 50-50. The Dodgers reportedly gave their entire share to Campanella. The Yankees will distribute their share to various charities, primarily their sandlot program.

British to Send Jets, Tanks to Iraq

LONDON (AP) — The British government is going to send Iraq a substantial number of jet bombers and tanks in an effort to keep Premier Abdul Karim Kassam's wavering neutralist regime from turning to the Soviet Union for its military supplies, an authoritative source said today.

The informant said the U.S. government had agreed reluctantly to the British arms aid to Kassam, whose government has come increasingly under the influence of the Iraqi Communists.

A Foreign Office spokesman said he could not comment on the report of the major policy decision by Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's Cabinet. He said a government statement on the subject is to be made in the House of Commons Monday.

Musial Enters Select Circle Of Sluggers

By ED WILKS

Babe Ruth, Jimmy Foxx, Mel Ott, Lou Gehrig, Ted Williams—and now Stan Musial.

Stan the Man, one of baseball's all-time great hitters, hammered his way into that select circle of sluggers Thursday night with his 400th home run—a 400-foot shot leading off the ninth inning at St. Louis that brought the Cardinals a 4-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Musial, at 37, has only two homers in his 18th season, but they've come on consecutive nights. And more than coincidentally, perhaps, they've triggered the Cards' first two-game winning "streak" of the year in the National League.

The milestone missile into the right-center field pavilion at Busch Stadium coupled Musial with Williams as the only 400 home-run sluggers now in business. Ruth, of course, is the all-time leader with 714. Foxx, the only right-handed belter in the lot, finished with 534. Ott, the only other National Leaguer in the group, hit 511. Gehrig had 493. And Williams, still sidelined by injury this season, has hit 482 for the Boston Red Sox.

Musial's homer climaxed a tremendous day for first baseman in the NL. Norm Larker hit a two-run homer that gave Los Angeles a 2-1 victory over San Francisco, and Ted Kluszewski powered his first home run of the year leading off the 10th inning for a 5-4 Pittsburgh victory over Philadelphia. Those were the only games scheduled in the NL.

In the American League, Baltimore breezed for a 10-1 victory at Washington and Detroit beat Boston 3-1 in the only games scheduled.

The homer was Musial's lone hit of the game. It came off reliever Don Elston (0-1). The Cards' other three runs also came on a homer, with pinch-hitter George Crowe delivering.

That tied it 3-all, after three solo homers off Card starter Lindy McDaniel by the Cubs' Jim Marshall, who hit a pair, and Ernie Banks. Howie Nunn (2-1) was the winner in relief for the last place Cards.

Larker, subbing for Gil Hodges, who pulled a shoulder muscle when he tripped in the second inning, ripped his winning homer in the fourth inning at San Francisco. It came off Jack Sanford (4-2), who had won four straight. The Giants, who pulled off five doubleplays, scored in their fourth on a triple by Willie Mays and Daryl Spencer's sacrifice fly.

Stan Williams (1-0) allowed the Giants but six hits—half of them by Mays. Willie also swung on a 3-0 pitch that would have given him an intentional walk — and fouled out with two men on base in the eighth.

After the game the Dodgers flew home to Los Angeles where they lost an exhibition night game to the New York Yankees 6-2 before 93,103, baseball's largest crowd ever.

Kluszewski, who had driven in a run with a single as the Pirates came from behind with four in the fourth, got the job done with his 256th career homers. Jim Owens (1-2) went all the way for the Phillies.

Roy Face (4-0) was the winner with one inning of relief.

Omaha Baseball Team Captures KMN Title

EMPORIA, Kan. (AP) — The University of Omaha baseball team ran its winning string to 14 and captured the Kansas-Missouri-Nebraska League title yesterday by thumping College of Emporia 8-0 and 9-6.

The victories gave Omaha an 8-0 conference record.

several of the leading modified stock car drivers from the Kansas City area are expected to be on hand, too.

Course Has Pros Talking In Circles

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A lush green golf course that on the surface appeared to be a push-over had most of the top ranking golfers talking to themselves today as the $25,000 Oklahoma City Open tournament plunged into the all-important second round.

On top of the heap was young Tommy Jacobs of Whittier, Calif., who got the maximum mileage out of his game for an opening 66 which is six-under par on the 6,640-yard par 72 Twin Hills Country Club course.

Strictly a test of accuracy, Twin Hills turned back the mass assault on par which usually develops on the Professional Golfers Assn. tour. Of the 148 players who teed off in the first round only 23 broke par.

Most of the pros agreed this is a "give and take" course. There are holes on which strokes can be picked up at random and then there are holes where strokes can be lost with reckless abandon.

Jacobs played consistent golf but was fortunate to pick up a pair of eagles on par 5 holes. He hit the 471-yard 8th hole with a 4 iron on his second shot and rolled in a 22-footer.

He chipped in from 25 yards out for his eagle on the 537-yard 16th hole.

Pete Mazur of Buffalo, N.Y., was Jacobs' chief competitor after carding a 67 on the strength of 6 birdies.

Pete Cooper, the Lakeland, Fla. veteran, with the silk-smooth swing, escaped most of the hazards and came through with a 68 to stay in the thick of the fight.

His score was matched by Glen Fowler, Oklahoma amateur champ who was heads and shoulders above the rest of the amateurs.

Close on the heels of the leaders were youngsters Bob Gohaly, Crystal River, Fla., and Monte Bradley of Hillsboro, Tex.

Six players were tied at 70 but none was in the list of top money winners of the year. However, the 71 group included such name players as National PGA Champ Dow Finsterwald, Mike Souchak, former National Open champion Lloyd Mangrum, former Masters and PGA champ Doug Ford, and the veteran Freddie Hasa, Jr.

Truck Driver Dies In Flaming Wreckage

NEW HAVEN, Mo. (AP)—Edward C. Bailey, 22, of New Haven, died in the flaming wreckage of his truck yesterday.

Police said the lime spreader truck ran off the highway, turned over and burst into flames when its gas tank exploded.

The accident occurred about a mile west of New Haven on Missouri highway 100.

New Haven is in Franklin County about 40 miles west of St. Louis.

Seven Cars, Trucks Damaged in Accident

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — With just a little equipment you could have set up a wrecking yard at this traffic accident scene.

Seven cars and two trucks were damaged Thursday when a car turned at high speed into Francisco Street off Divisadero. Police booked the driver, 76-year-old Frank Needham, for drunk driving and eight counts of hit-run.

Coliseum Is For Pull Hitters

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Casey Stengel, one of the nation's foremost exponents of obscure rhetoric, was approached innocently by a man with a question.

"Casey," the man said, "you've seen the layout here at the Coliseum. What do you think of it?"

The questioner was wise enough to bring along a tape recorder. And here is what Casey said: "Well, I see the field. I think it's like every baseball club in the United States. Not saying they'd like to play here. Course, if I was going to be a ballplayer (or) I wanted to own a club I would like a nice new field where it would be more convenient for the players to play more uniform games."

"Therefore, I think that's what they're going to have in Los Angeles. . . . Anything up to date in Los Angeles, or in, you might say, California, makes always pays off."

Casey, cornered in the dugout before his Yankees met the Dodgers in an exhibition Thursday night, was asked specifically about the leftfield screen. All newcomers are asked about it.

"I'm not concerned about the screen," Casey said. "I can't hit any more. I don't have my glove and I don't have my bat."

Would the Yankees enjoy themselves here?

"Well, I don't know — no, it would depend on your lineup. Sometime you've got to play here and you've got to have a lineup of men who can hit that left field, and that's the trouble when you come to a new ballpark—if you've got a ball team that can hit three fields why do you want to have to have men who can only hit one field?"

"Now this is a great place for a pull hitter, if he's a right-handed hitter, or if he's a left-handed hitter and he's a long-distance hitter to left field. That's the payoff for you to pick up those kind of men, but why would you fire a man who would be good in other parks just because he couldn't hit to left field?"

Next question.

S-C Tigers Take Battering From Kansas City Ball Club

Rockhurst of Kansas City scored eight runs in the fourth inning Thursday in battering the Smith-Cotton Tigers, 13-3, in a baseball tilt played in Kansas City.

Rockhurst waded into Smith-Cotton pitcher Dick Horner for two runs in the first inning, two more in the third, then eight in the explosive fourth inning before Mike Hanigan took over the mound chores in the fifth. Horner fanned three and walked six while giving up eight hits. Hanigan whiffed two, walked none and allowed no hits in finishing up. The one run scored off him was unearned.

The Tigers scored two runs in the third inning and one in the seventh. Tim Morgan got a double for Smith-Cotton and the other five Sedalia safeties were singles by Larry Decker, Nicky Nichols, Ernie Dow, John Dunham and Horner.

Couldn't Stand to See Children Go Hungry

CHICAGO (AP)—A grocer gave two big bags of food Thursday to the destitute family of an unemployed laborer who was caught stealing $200 worth of food from his store.

Recipient of the food was Mrs. Nancy Brown, 29, mother of two small boys. Her husband, Adolph, 22, was in jail after he was seized attempting to haul away a cart load of groceries from a store operated by John and Michael Epifanio.

John, 27, explained why he gave the food to Mrs. Brown: "I'm human and I got kids of my own. I wouldn't want to see them go hungry. I can't judge the children for what the father does."

Epifanio, father of two boys, is white, the Browns are Negro.

Ortega Favored To Beat Rudolph Stutch

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP) — Gaspar Ortega is favored to beat Rudy Stutch tonight but the odds don't mean much to the revenge-minded Stutch who thought he won their first bout.

Ortega took a split decision by a single point after a bloody battle in New York Feb. 6 but suffered an eye cut that has kept him on the sidelines since.

Tonight's 10-round bout between the scrappy welterweights will be telecast and broadcast nationally (NBC, 9 p.m. EST).

Fun-Loving Sultan Dies Thursday Night

LONDON (AP)—The Sultan of Johore, one of the last of the fabulously wealthy eastern potentates who never changed his fun-loving ways, died Thursday night.

Maj. Gen. Sir Ibrahim, the 85-year-old ruler of the small, rich rubber state at the tip of the Malayan peninsula, succumbed in a luxurious hotel suite in London, where he was as well known and respected as in his native land.

The 6-foot-2-inch Sultan was stricken with influenza two months ago and never made a full recovery. His advanced age was a major factor.

The Sultan's 65-year-old son, Tunku Mahkota (crown prince) Ismail, succeeds to the title. He was en route to London by plane when his father died.

Orders Mourning For Heart Attack Victim

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)—The government today ordered three days of national mourning for Crisanto Cardinal Luque, dead at 70 of a heart attack.

The cardinal, whose tenure was a major factor in the downfall of Dictator Gustavo Rojas Pinilla two years ago, was stricken Thursday while at lunch.

His death reduced to 72 the membership of the College of Cardinals.

Cardinal Luque was Colombia's first prince of the Roman Catholic Church. He received his red hat at the 1953 consistory. Born Feb. 1, 1889, he became a bishop in 1931 and Archbishop of Bogota in 1950.

Matter of FACT

The period of the Middle Ages may be called the golden age of ivory. Many ancient manuscripts were adorned with beautifully carved book covers. Ivory was also used for hunting horns, caskets, combs, mirrors and a variety of other articles. During the Renaissance period ivory work which employed ivory became very popular.

Archduchess Reports Her Jewels Missing

NEW YORK (AP)—Archduchess Marie of Austria reported Thursday that one of the few surviving pieces of the Austrian crown jewels is missing.

The Archduchess, 24, described the antique gold, pearl and ruby brooch as priceless. She said she wore it Tuesday night at a ball in the Ambassador hotel. A search of the ballroom failed to produce the brooch—two by four inches, with a large center pearl, three dropped pearls and a circlet of 16 small and four large rubies.

DAM SITE?—Alaskans have plans for a dam that would produce more electricity than any other hydroelectric plant in the world. The dam would be built at Rampart, 90 miles northwest of Fairbanks and 300 miles north of Anchorage. The artificial lake thus formed (shaded area on Newsmag) would be larger than New Jersey. Alaskans think this lake would be so big it would warm up much of their huge state.

Dog Lover Finds It Tough To Become Used to a Cat

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — It is hard for a dog lover to learn to live with a cat in the house.

But it can be done—particularly if you have a small daughter who insists on having a cat as a pet.

It has been some six months since Lady Dottie, a tiny fur-pawed black and white powerhouse, came to our house to stay. Now she is a large and formidable powerhouse, and stomps around the place as if she paid the rent.

The only one who has any real authority over her is our daughter, Tracy, who is nearly six. She uses Lady Dottie as a pillow, dancing partner and substitute sister.

The cat has gone for so many rides in the baby buggy that she now believes it is her own private vehicle. We are even beginning to refer to it as "the family Catillac."

Between Lady Dottie and myself there is a strange and rather undefined relationship.

As a lifelong dog-man I have always disliked cats, and been suspicious of cat-fond people, figuring that any human being who preferred a cat to a dog must have a hidden character defect of some kind.

Now I must confess to harboring a mixed feeling bordering on fondness for Lady Dottie.

Part of it is based on pure gratitude. I had heard the old wives' tale that on cats at night would crawl up on your chest and breathe your breath before it reached you, thus dooming you to death for lack of oxygen. And I was afraid it might be true.

To me cats were sneaky, treacherous, wily beasts who took everything they could get and gave nothing in return. Why wouldn't they rob you of breath?

For three months I slept with the bedroom door closed, to isolate me from the possibility of any such midnight feline assault. Gradually, however, my secret superstitious panic abated as I realized Lady Dottie was too sensible to try to rob me of my breath. She was too busy robbing my pocketbook for beef liver, cloth and rubber toy mice and all the other niceties of a modern cat's way of life.

Once I realized she had a vested interest in me to protect, I lost my dread of her.

I noted one big difference between cats and dogs. A dog does you a favor by getting out of your way. A cat seems to have the idea that it is doing you a favor by getting in your way.

Lady Dottie, although her family tree disappears into the nearest alley, is as supremely proud and sure of herself as an Egyptian queen. When she decides to honor you by running up against your legs, you are expected to pause and be flattered, even though at the moment you may be trying to carry a message to Garcia.

For a brief time as our acquaintanceship ripened, I thought perhaps Lady Dottie and I shared the same world, as a man can share the same world with a pet dog.

It isn't possible. A cat will come into your world as far as it chooses, but you can come only to the outer fringes of its world. And if you try to go further the cat coldly and silently closes the door between you.

Lady Dottie has won my admiration because of her iron self-confidence. I have always had a grudging admiration for women because they have this factor of interior independence and resourcefulness of spirit.

But women now and then show a sign of weakness. A cat never does. A man has to take off his hat to anything stronger than a modern woman. And a cat is.

I suppose I'll always be a dog lover at heart—weakness calls to weakness—but Lady Dottie, that walking fur fort, has taught me you never should underestimate the power of a cat.

Inger Stevens Is Lonesome

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Sometimes I could get so lonely I could scream."

This helps to explain the mystery of Inger Stevens. Seemingly a well-adjusted, independent person, the bright young actress underwent an emotional crackup last January. Hollywood was shocked to learn that she had swallowed a poisonous cleaning fluid at her New York apartment.

She is back here now and working again. Tonight she stars on CBS' Playhouse 90 in "Diary of a Nurse." She talks volubly about her life and career, though she avoids what specifically caused her turmoil.

But Inger did talk about the loneliness that can afflict a single girl. She is a divorcee.

"The thing I miss the most is having someone to share things with," she said earnestly. "I come home in the evening bursting to unburden myself of the things that happened to me during the day's work. But there is no one to tell them to.

"Yes, I have dates, but that isn't the same. You need someone to share the day-to-day events of your life. When you have no one like that, life can get very difficult. Sometimes I get so lonely I could scream."

I suggested the solution to her problem would be to find a man.

"Yes, I hope some day to find a man who will love me and whom I can love," she agreed. "But until that happens, I have to find other means of curing my loneliness. I do that by keeping busy."

"I want to keep my career active now. There is talk of a picture or two. My contract with Paramount allows me to do live television and I enjoy excitement of doing live shows. For two whole years when I was getting started, I did a great number of TV dramas. I can also do a play, and I'd like to find one."

New Haven Man Dies As Truck is Wrecked Then Catches on Fire

NEW HAVEN, Mo. (P)—A New Haven man was burned to death Thursday when his truck left the highway, turned over and burst into flames.

He was 22-year-old Edward C. Bailey, driving a lime spreader truck for the Berbermeyer Quarry near New Haven.

Police said the gas tank apparently exploded when the truck turned over after it left Missouri 100 near New Haven.

New Haven is in Franklin County about 40 miles west of St. Louis.

Kansas City voters booted out the 19-year-old reform government last month and everybody's wondering what the outcome will be. Among those forced to resign was City Manager L. P. Cookingham. The reform group took over city administration two decades ago from the old Pendergast machine when gambling houses and bignios operated openly in the city. (AP Wirephoto).

Senate Ready For Final Three Weeks

Emphasis Will Be On Passing Bills From Here On

JEFFERSON CITY (P)—The Missouri Senate cleared the decks for the final three weeks of the Legislature in a long cleanup session Thursday.

Sen. George A. Spencer (D) of Columbia, majority leader, told the senators this probably would be their last chance to work on Senate bills in the amendment and debate stage. From here on the emphasis will be on passing bills.

So the senators stayed well past their usual adjournment time, hacking away at pet bills that had been bypassed earlier.

One major bill—proposed withholding system for collecting the state income tax—was not advanced. Sen. Frank X. Reller (D) of Wentzville, the sponsor, was absent. So the bill was shunted aside where it could be called up any time if legislative leaders decide at the last minute the revenue pinch is great enough to force its passage.

Even if passed by the Senate, the bill still would have to get through the House in the closing days.

Near the end the Senate had only 16 members present—two less than a quorum. But no one raised the question so the Senate kept slogging along.

Among bills put in position for passage next week was one that would set up a state system of regulating motor boats. It was described as an effort to keep federal coast guard regulations from becoming automatically effective next April.

The bill would supplant a much stricter measure killed in the House earlier.

It would require motor boat owners to pay a $5 state licensing fee every three years but motors of less than 10 horsepower would be exempt. Also exempted would be boats operating on farm ponds, private lakes, railroad and city lakes.

The bill includes several safety requirements—a life preserver for each passenger and lights at night.

Under an amendment adopted Thursday a boat towing a water skier could operate with only the pilot in the boat if it carried a rear view mirror. The original bill called for two persons in any towing boat.

Also advanced was a bill to bar so-called "bait" advertising. It would be a misdemeanor, subject to $100 fine, for a merchant to offer an attractive price in an ad with no intention of selling at that price.

Employees of newspapers, radio and TV stations who accepted such ads in good faith would not be liable to the penalty. And if a merchant had a supply of goods on hand for sale at the attractive low price, but the supply gave out, he would not be violating the law.

Just before the Senate quit work until Monday afternoon, it adopted a resolution asking Congress to help to preserve state water rights.

Sen. Jack C. Jones (D) of Carrollton, the sponsor, said it was intended to keep upriver irrigation states from using up all the water in the Missouri River basin.

About 500 Expected At Church Conference

SIKESTON, Mo. (P)—Some 500 ministers and laymen are expected here May 14 for the annual meeting of the St. Louis Conference of the Methodist Church.

Some 200 pastoral appointments will be announced at the final session May 18.

The conference covers the St. Louis area and a large section of eastern Missouri with churches having a membership of more than 86,000.

Herter Rules Out Fear and Appeasement Negotiations

A Hero's Son Corky Kelly To West Point

Shuns Presidential Appointment, Gets In on Merit Alone

MEDIA, Pa. (P)—I've just received the greatest birthday present a fellow could wish. The Army says I've been appointed to West Point.

It was Corky Kelly, 19 Wednesday, breaking sweet news on the telephone to his mother, Mrs. J. Watson Pedlow, in nearby Chester Heights.

The news came in a personal letter from President Eisenhower, who praised the boy and predicted great things for him.

Corky was in seventh heaven for more than one reason. He had made the grade the hard way—by taking a stiff competitive examination. Special privilege was his for the asking. He could have won the appointment in a breeze, as the son of a valiant father, and no one could possibly have objected.

But Corky wanted to go all the way solely on merit. He figured his father, Capt. Colin P. Kelly Jr., the nation's first air hero of World War II, would have wanted it that way.

He applied for admission to West Point under a law which makes it possible for the sons of deceased war veterans to obtain admission, although a presidential appointment was his for the asking.

Capt. Kelly was killed three days after Pearl Harbor. While flying back from a bombing mission against the Japanese battleship Haruna, enemy fighters riddled his plane. He told his crew to bail out. He could not.

In the surge of patriotism which swept the country President Franklin D. Roosevelt, on the 10th day after Pearl Harbor, wrote a letter to the man who would be in his place in 1956.

He asked that unknown successor to "consider the merits of an American youth of goodly heritage—Colin P. Kelly III—for appointment as a cadet in the U.S. Military Academy at West Point."

The President meant it as an enduring tribute and living memorial to a gallant soldier.

BRITAIN NOW HAS SIX SCIENCE STATIONS CHECKING

LONDON (P)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan told Parliament Thursday Britain now has six science stations checking strontium 90 fallout. So far, he said, the fallout level is not dangerous.

Exhausted by vain attempts to wade through snow drifts that piled up to five-foot depths.

Frustrated by failure of their attempts to fashion snowshoes from birch branches and adhesive tape.

Tantalized by the distant drone of engines which they knew came from search planes looking for them.

And, finally, disheartened when the noise faded away and the dying doctors waited for the fate both knew was inevitable.

Their single-engine plane, with Dr. Miller, a veteran pilot, at the controls, plowed into a clump of trees Feb. 21. The doctors were trying to fly 70 miles from Berlin N. H., to Lebanon, N. H., on the return leg of a mercy mission.

The tiny plane was spotted from the air last Tuesday after the blanket of snow melted.

Survey Made for Weather Warning Signals Wed.

A survey has been completed by a Civil Defense engineer from Battle Creek, Mich., for the location of the weather warning signals. The recommendation made was Sedalia is in need of four such warning signals and their locations were picked.

However, it was reported the engineer did state the downtown signal was not extremely necessary, but if one could be obtained, an over lapping signal would be better than just the bare necessity.

Mrs. Peggie Hewitt Homan, Civil Defense director in Sedalia, accompanied the engineer and they made their report to Mayor Abe Silverman.

An engineer from the Federal Co., stated that should his firm be accepted to make the installation it was possible they could be up and ready to go on May 30.

Exchange Demands Thursday

Steel and Industry Quit Airing Their Differences

By NORMAN WALKER

NEW YORK (P)—The United Steelworkers Union and steel industry exchanged demands Thursday for government investigation of each other, then agreed they'd both better quit airing their differences in public.

The union fired off demands to the Justice Department and National Labor Relations Board for probes of possible antitrust law and labor law violation on the part of the industry.

Steel producers came back with a suggestion that if anything needs federal investigation it is "the concentration of power in the union which is what gives rise to the problems of industry self-protection."

R. Conrad Cooper, chief negotiator for U. S. Steel Corp. and the industry, then suggested more progress would be made in the weeks remaining before current contracts expire June 30 if "we work at it privately and diligently."

Union President David J. McDonald agreed.

The union demands for government investigations were based on Cooper's disclosures Wednesday. He said the industry is considering various plans in the event the union adopts a divide-and-conquer strategy of striking only part of the industry July 1 if there is no new agreement then.

Arthur J. Goldberg, union counsel, wrote the Justice Department that a profit-sharing plan in a partial strike would violate antitrust laws. He also complained to the NLRB that a lockout plan—in which all companies would close down if only a few were struck—would violate the Taft-Hartley Act.

Cooper retorted that the industry, while considering what it might do under all eventualities, has decided nothing finally. He denied flatly the industry has considered sharing profits if some firms are struck and others not.

Goldberg's letters to the federal agencies once more involved the government in the just-started steel negotiations. President Eisenhower has kept a Washington focus on the crucial steel bargaining by twice saying the government can't stand idly by if the bargaining veers toward new wage-price inflation.

The union hasn't yet spelled out its demands, but says it wants a sizeable wage boost plus expanded employment opportunity and pension-insurance improvements. Present steel wages average $3 an hour.

'Joe' Imhauser Memorial Fund Is Established

The death of Joseph Charles Imhauser Monday has resulted in a movement among his many friends to create a memorial fund in which Mrs. Imhauser and her three children will be beneficiaries.

Shortly after his death, due to drowning in a farm pond near Beaman, friends came up with the idea of the memorial fund, and the three Sedalia banks, the Sedalia Bank and Trust Co., the Third National Bank, and the Union Savings Bank, were contacted and agreed to handle the Joe Imhauser Memorial Fund.

Other Sedalia business firms have agreed to accept contributions to the fund. As of noon Thursday, Broadway Lanes, Bacon's Conoco Station, Bing's No. 2 supermarket and the Pacific Cafe have agreed to accept contributions at their establishments. Other establishments are being contacted.

Late Selling Burst Hits Rye Futures Hard

CHICAGO (P)—A late burst of selling hit rye futures hard Thursday on the Board of Trade but other grains and soybeans finished mostly little changed from previous closes.

The setbacks in rye ran to well over two cents a bushel in the final few minutes of trading as stop-loss liquidation added to the pressure. Some of the selling appeared to be cashing of long-standing profits which had been shrinking somewhat on moderate declines in the distant contracts the past two days.

Curiously, though, the May contract which had been in good demand while other deliveries weakened chalked up the extreme decline.

Other grains moved up and down over fractional ranges in late transactions after having held almost stationary most of the day.

Wheat closed unchanged to 1/4 cent a bushel lower, May $1.91 1/4-91; corn unchanged to 1/4 lower, May $1.24 1/2; oats 3/4 higher to 1/4 lower, May 67 cents; rye 1 1/2-2 lower, May $1.39 1/4-40, and soybeans 1/4 higher to 1/2 lower, May $2.29 1/2-30.

At Recognition Dinner

Cloyce Wilsons Are Presented Award for Farm Achievements

Mr. and Mrs. Cloyce Wilson, Route 3, Sedalia, were presented the Missouri Bankers Achievement Award for outstanding achievements on their farm at the Recognition Dinner for Farm and Home Planning Families held Wednesday night at the Broadway Presbyterian Church.

Receiving the Missouri Bankers Association Progress Awards were: Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Egbert, Green Ridge; Mr. and Mrs. Loy Smith, Green Ridge; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Alt, Route 1, Sedalia; and Mr. and Mrs. Gale Van Slyke, Windsor. All of the awards were presented by Frank Mehl, representing the Missouri Bankers Association.

Farm Home Planning is to try to work out a system to get more efficiency and provide better living and better farming, Lloyd Lewellen, Pettis County associate Extension agent, explained, and the awards are for doing an excellent job in this planning and producing.

The speaker of the evening was R. B. Eling, from the Livestock and Meat Board of Chicago, who was introduced by Merle Vaughan county agent.

"Home and Farm Planning or balanced farming, is a wonderful thing," said Eling, "but a balanced community is of the utmost importance and that is what you have here, in having the people in town included in this meeting of farm families."

Eling stated that the State of Missouri produces 4.01 per cent of all the red meat in the country and that only three states, Texas, Ohio and Minnesota produce more. Missouri needs only about half what it produced and so the other half is shipped to all parts of the country.

The profit from meat production is important, Eling told the group, but there is something else that is more important. Meat is a high protein diet and those who eat meat attain the greatest life expectancy. People would be better off if they would eat more meat. He illustrated this by people of various countries. The average American is 5 feet 7 1/2, weighs 154 pounds, life expectancy is 64.3 years, and his meat consumption 160 pounds. In China he said, the average height is 5 feet 3, weight 120 pounds, life expectancy 30 years, meat consumption 19 pounds. India 5 feet 4, 110 pounds, 27 years, meat consumption, seven pounds. But in Australia, the average is 5 foot 8, weight 170 pounds, life expectancy 63 1-3 years and meat consumption 260 pounds.

Livestock production is the key link, Eling said. The Farm Board, he explained was organized in 1923, for research to learn facts about meat and the funds come from producers, meat packers and American meat institute.

Grants are allotted to colleges and universities to make a study on protein, fat, minerals, vitamins, reproduction, location, longevity, blood regeneration, dental caries. There are studies on human nutrition and meat cookery. One doctor went to Alaska to study the Eskimos, whose food is mostly meat, and found they all have perfect teeth. Other researches studied liver as a blood builder. And one woman doctor proved the value of starting to feed babies meat at five or six weeks which resulted in less illness and colic among infants.

Cloyd Merk served as master of ceremonies and invocation was by Paul Stevens. Mrs. Rance Hoehns, Paul Neitzert and Leonard Knoerschild led the group singing.

Guests recognized were the county judges, representatives from the retail grocers, locker plants, livestock marketing, livestock dealers, bankers, fertilizer and seed dealers, machinery dealers, related agricultural agencies, all who play a part in the farm program.

Members of the Farm and Home Planning committee were introduced as follows: Paul Stephens, chairman, Longwood group; Cloyd Merk, secretary, Smithton group; Albert Tucker, Green Ridge group; George Teter, Lake Creek group; Leonard Knoerschild, Prairie group and Floyd Egbert, Liaison officer, between this committee and Extension Council.

Asks Reds To Match West's Concessions

He Outlines West's Attitude in Foreign Policy Address

WASHINGTON (P)—Secretary of State Christian A. Herter Thursday night ruled out fear and appeasement in negotiating with the Soviets to end the Berlin crisis and reunite Germany.

He called on the Soviet Union to match the West concession for concession to end the danger of war.

Herter outlined the West's attitude in a major foreign policy address carried to the people by radio and television on the eve of his departure for Geneva to attend a Big Four foreign ministers' conference.

This was Herter's first report to the nation since he succeeded the ailing John Foster Dulles two weeks ago.

Herter appealed for "business-like negotiation and not a propaganda exercise" when the Western foreign ministers meet Monday with the U.S.S.R.'s Andrei Gromyko.

Any new agreements with the Soviets, he said, must be self-enforcing and must provide for "guaranteed freedom for Berlin" with no restrictions on Allied rights to remain as defenders of the more than two million West Berliners.

"The heart of our policy can be clearly and simply said to be this: A Germany reunited in freedom, a security system linked with arrangements for arms control and in the interim a free and secure Berlin," Herter said.

He called on the Kremlin rulers to realize "the depth of our solemn Berlin commitment" before they take any action to precipitate what he called a "trial by force."

Herter promised that the West would seek meaningful agreements "honestly and in good faith to seek some advance, even if small, toward a just peace."

He said President Eisenhower hopes that the Geneva foreign ministers meeting will develop in such a way as to lead later to a summit conference.

"This means that the foreign ministers meeting must give some promise that a summit meeting would have a reasonable prospect of advancing the cause of peace," Herter said.

"The eyes of the world are bound to be focussed on a meeting of the heads of government. It would be unfair to all peoples to risk shattering their hopes and expectations by engaging in summit talks under conditions likely to produce failure."

Herter said that if the Soviets refused to negotiate seriously at the Geneva meeting "the world will see that it is the Soviet Union alone which is blocking the free

State Health Officials to be Here on May 27

There will be representatives from the Missouri State Health Department in Sedalia on May 27 to look into Sedalia's water system—and Spring Fork Lake.

An "off-the-cuff" remark was ventured that fishing or making the Spring Fork Lake a recreational park at this time will entail more than just rules and regulations. It was indicated that such a step will mean a costly expenditure for Sedalia on improving further the system of purification.

However, nothing officially has been given out, nor have any inspections been made, or any recommendations ventured forth.

The representative or representatives, it was learned to meet with the Public Works Commissioners who oversee the water system, made an inspection of properties and at that time informed the commissioners what might be necessary.

A member of the Board indicated it could result in the necessary expenditures of several thousands of dollars running possibly as much as $300,000. The company at present has been making improvements in the filter system, making changes from time to time as money became available.

Room for Compromise

War Over Berlin Is Said Unlikely

By SEYMOUR TOPPING

BERLIN (P)—War over Berlin is unlikely.

The stakes in the Berlin dispute are big. Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev may take risks. President Eisenhower cannot afford to back off.

But both sides dread an armed conflict.

There is room for compromise. Only a disastrous diplomatic fumble or miscalculation could spark World War III.

This is the consensus of Western and Communist experts in this divided city as diplomats get set for a foreign ministers conference next week, and a parley at the summit.

Khrushchev's drive to oust American, French and British troops from West Berlin is something more than another of the periodic Red probing actions on the global perimeter.

What spurred the Soviet leader was West Berlin's disrupting impact on East Germany, his most prized satellite.

He said something had ought to be started on the Berlin question in six months and that brought May 27 to the fore as an explosive crisis date. But he later said that hadn't been in his mind at all, he was just using six months as a suggestion.

His plan called for East Berlin to be confirmed as the capital of East Germany. The Reds would be free to close the East Berlin sector border, sealing off the East German people from West Berlin.

To pressure the West into compliance, Khrushchev announced his intention to transfer to the East Germans controls over Allied supply lifelines. This also aimed at securing de facto or practical Western recognition of the East German regime.

Because of its location 110 miles behind the Iron Curtain, West Berlin drains East Germany of vital manpower by annually drawing in about 150,000 refugees.

An elaborate Allied intelligence network based in the city keeps touch with East German political developments and watches the 22 Soviet divisions garrisoned in the satellite's provinces.

In meeting Khrushchev's Berlin bid at the conference table, Western powers have laid down two positions of no retreat.

First, they will protect the freedom of the 2,200,000 West Berliners.

Secondly, they will not yield any of their essential rights in West Berlin under Soviet pressure. In Eisenhower's words: "One result would be to undermine the mutual confidence upon which our entire system of collective security is founded."

What, therefore, are the prospects for an acceptable compromise with the Soviets?

Most probable is a patchwork compromise that will avert the danger of war or another Berlin blockade—but would leave the seeds of a future crisis.

A compromise of this kind would be a stopgap. Inevitably, as the East Germans gained in strength and influence, a new Communist squeeze on Allied lifelines could be expected.

There will be hidden dangers for the Allies and the West Berliners in any new status agreement with the Communists.

It will be up to Western statesmen at the forthcoming conferences to determine if these pitfalls are more hazardous than those which imperil us today.

Reportedly Exacted Money From Newspaper

Two Labor Union Officials Hide Behind 5th Amendment

WASHINGTON (P)—Two labor union officials, accused of exacting payments from New York area newspaper and printing firms, pleaded the Fifth Amendment Thursday as Senate investigators tried unsuccessfully to make them talk.

Again and again, Harold Gross and Cornelius Noonan refused to answer questions on grounds their words might incriminate them.

Gross, president of a Teamsters Local in Miami and a convicted extortionist, kept silent on testimony of other witnesses that he charged thousands of dollars to assure labor peace at a New Jersey commercial printing firm which turns out, among other things, Sunday supplements for newspapers.

He also balked at saying whether he pocketed other thousands for seeing to it that Sunday sections were delivered without interruption to the New York Times, the New York Mirror and the New York Journal-American.

Noonan, head of a New York longshoremen's union affiliate, also invoked the Fifth Amendment when asked whether he shared in payoffs which purportedly included more than $300,000 from the Neo Gravure Printing Co., Weehawken, N. J., over a 14-year span.

Noonan was outwardly unruffled as an investigator for the committee and a New York City detective ticked off what they said were his associations with such underworld figures as Joe Adoris, Albert Anastasia and Meyer Lansky.

As investigator Walter Sheridan and Detective Frank Nostrano reeled off their testimony, Noonan sat calmly, his arms crossed over his chest.

Gross and Noonan were preceded on the stand by present and former business managers of the American Weekly, which many newspapers carry as a Sunday supplement.

Officials of the Neo Gravure firm, which prints the American Weekly, testified Wednesday that Gross was paid $4,000 a year between 1952 and 1958 to make certain jurisdictional labor disputes didn't halt delivery of the American Weekly to the Journal-American. Neo Gravure made these payments, but the American Weekly bore the cost, the committee was told.

John J. Padulo, former business manager of the American Weekly, testified he regarded the payments as improper but he said he authorized them on word from Neo Gravure officials that they were needed to assure delivery of 1,100,000 copies of the American Weekly then used by the Journal-American.

Asks Public Support

Obscene Mail Claimed To be Serious Threat

Postmaster Maurice Hogan appealed for public support today in the intensified war Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield has declared on the "ruthless mail order merchants in filth who are violating the homes of the nation in defiance of the national government."

Using one of the nation's most cherished privileges to carry on their smutty trade — the uncensored letter — "barons of obscenity" today are sending unsorted lewd materials into our mail boxes, much of it directed to teenage youngsters, Postmaster Hogan explained.

The materials offered for sale include filthy films and books, and dirty pictures, slides and related filth, advertised in highly objectionable circulars that are being sent indiscriminately to homes here and all over the nation, he said.

Postmaster General Summerfield has advised the local postmaster that $500,000,000 is being taken in annually by large mail order dealers in pornography and obscenity. Postal authorities here, as well as those over the nation, receive complaints from many groups. Nationally, complaints are reported from leading clergymen, school groups, newspaper editors and alarmed parents.

During a recent 12-month period, the local postmaster was advised, postal inspectors conducted 4,000 investigations on obscene and pornographic mail and caused the arrest of 293 persons dealing in this filth. This is an increase of 45 per cent over the previous year, and an all-time high, according to the Postmaster General. Moreover, Summerfield has emphasized to local postal officials that the threat is increasing.

Indicative of the extensive operations of the filth factories that are invading the homes of the nation with their suggestive advertisements and dirty materials, Summerfield noted that within the past few weeks simultaneous raids by U. S. Marshals and Postal Inspectors in New York City resulted in seizure of 15 tons of dirty films, slides, photographs and other smut, and a mailing list, used nationally, containing 100,000 names.

Another raid in recent days yielded huge quantities of filth from the premises of a Santa Monica, California, dealer in especially objectionable films and photographs.

"No longer do dealers in smut surreptitiously serve only a few adults," the local postmaster explained. "They brazenly solicit our children, sending their material indiscriminately and without conscience into our home mail boxes."

"For example," Hogan noted, "the Postmaster General has advised me of cases where teenagers wrote away for auto parts and received later 'sex instructions' advertisements; of new graduating classes whose names were taken from newspapers by filth merchants who circularized every member of the class; of youngsters who wrote in for model airplane catalogs, or a set of stamps, and later received materials on films portraying sex and perversion."

Complaints are also being received in increasing numbers over the nation involving solicitation from filth factories of innocent teen-age girls, housewives, and even Cub Scouts, the postmaster noted.

"The Post Office Department is diligently trying to clean up the mails," Postmaster General Summerfield explained recently to Congress, which is considering new measures to deal with this growing national threat. "But," Summerfield added, "the Post Office Department has been subjected frequently to attack and ridicule by those who hope to profit personally from unrestricted mailings, or by those who — confusing liberty with license — unwittingly give them assistance."

"There appear to be two basic reasons for the increasing volume of filth in the mails," he continued. "First, the tremendous profits that are realized from a relatively small capital investment, and, secondly, the very broad definition of obscenity handed down by certain courts—including those in certain Metropolitan Areas — notably Los Angeles and New York."

These rulings, he concluded, "have established virtual sanctuaries." From these sanctuaries, he explained, filth dealers have operated with impunity in developing their huge business in filth, flooding this community and others with materials which constitute "one of the most serious moral and social problems in the United States today."

May Named Palsy Month Of Education

Traditionally May Day is the time when children fashion pretty May baskets from bits of paper and ribbon, fill them with home made candy, popcorn and nuts, top them with wild flowers picked in the woods, and then hang them on the door knobs at the home of their best friends.

Also in keeping with this tradition, after the bearer of the May basket rings the doorbell, he or she runs away fast for the person who is caught bringing such a basket gets soundly kissed.

Unfortunately all children can not enter into this age old custom and one group who, to date, can never hope to fully participate are those who have cerebral palsy.

May has been named Cerebral Palsy Education Month for Pettis County.

Every 53 minutes a child is born with cerebral palsy. However, this can happen to anyone, at any time, before, during or after birth.

Since, at the present time, there is no cure for cerebral palsy, great emphasis is being placed on research into this crippling that strikes primarily at children and prevents them from enjoying a normal life.

Children with cerebral palsy can walk only after a long period of training of weak and uncoordinated muscles, and then often with the aid of brace or crutch.

Many victims of cerebral palsy cannot speak due to inability to control the tongue and throat and speech comes to them only after a similar long period of training in which they learn to form the syllable, the word, and finally the sentence.

The local United Cerebral Palsy organization participates in the Pettis County United Fund Drive.

Ceremonies At Striped College Held

Striped College eighth grade commencement was held Friday, April 24, with the graduates being John Wayne Bohon, Tommy Dee Carver, Don Louis Eye, Bonnie June Fischer, and Dorothy Joahn Leiter, with Mrs. Don McQueen and Mrs. Clarence Leiter, teachers.

The stage was decorated in blue and white, the class colors, with Mrs. Clarence Leiter playing for the processional.

Invocation was given by the Rev. H. E. Trevathan, pastor of the Epworth Methodist Church, who also gave the commencement address.

The welcome was given by John Bohon, and Tommy Dee Carver gave the class history. The school song was by the graduates followed by a reading by Don Eye, "Live and Let Live."

Joann Leiter gave the class address.

Mrs. C. F. Scotten, substituting for Dr. Scotten, who is ill, presented the diplomas.

Students who graduated four years ago from Striped College and are now high school graduates, were introduced: John Dale Hansen, Joyce Kroeger, Patty Rodewald, Mary Bohon Ware, Carolee Shirley, Caroline Staley, Virginia Leiter and Leland Finley, and then presented Mrs. McQueen and Mrs. Leiter each a gift of a Sedalia centennial plate.

All former graduates under Mrs. McQueen then came to the stage. There were 23 and each told what year they graduated. Joanne Leiter and Bonnie Fisher sang, "May the Good Lord Bless and Keep You," with Mrs. Clarence Leiter as accompanist.

Bonnie Fisher then presented Mrs. McQueen a gift from the class.

Sandra Cox, representing the "Spirit of Good Wishes," lighted the candles of the graduates who in turn lighted the candles the candles of the upper grades in the candle lighting ceremony after which they sang, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

The crowd, numbering 150, then went to the basement where a reception was held.

Punch and cake were served by the high school graduates assisted by the mothers.

Barnes Wins Award In Competition

At the annual law school dinner Saturday evening at the University of Missouri, Donald Barnes, son of Mrs. I. W. Barnes, 909 West Tenth, was awarded the Roscoe Anderson Award for excellence in the junior finals of the Case Club competition.

Barnes, one of four second year law students selected as finalists in the Case Club eliminations last fall, was awarded a plaque as the outstanding advocate (lawyer) in the afternoon finals.

Judge Norman D. Houser, commissioner of the Missouri Supreme Court, made the award to Barnes at the banquet which was attended by the judges of the Missouri Supreme Court, Missouri lawyers, law students and guests.

In making the presentation, Judge Houser commented that the work of the student lawyers measured up to the work of experienced lawyers who had appeared before him in appellate cases.

Barnes, an honor graduate of Smith-Cotton High School and Central Missouri State College, has had extensive debate experience throughout high school and college.

John E. Burruss, Jr., of Jefferson City was co-counsel with Barnes in the moot case involving the liability of a tobacco company for lung cancer. Ralph Edwards, St. Louis, and Clarence Finley of North Kansas City, appeared as the opposing lawyers.

Richard Coburn, St. Louis lawyer, in the major address of the evening, told the Missouri lawyers of the Russian judicial system. Coburn was one of six lawyers selected by the American Bar Association to make a trip to the Soviet Union to study its courts.

Recognition was given at the banquet to seven graduating law students for their initiation into the Order of Coif, national honorary legal society. The Law School Alumni Association presented Judge Laurence M. Hyde, of the Missouri Supreme Court, a citation of merit for service to the legal profession.

$2 Payday Purpose Told By Finance

As result of the unusual payday today, approximately $280,000 worth of $2 bills are floating around Whiteman Air Force Base and the surrounding communities, according to Capt. Charles Daniels Jr., base financial services officer.

Designed to give an indication of just where Whiteman personnel spend their money and how much of it ends up in the hands of civilian merchants, the payday included both enlisted and officers' payroll, but excluded civilian employees.

Persons being paid in $2 bills did not include those who have their checks mailed to the banks, Capt. Daniels said.

City Parks Provide Recreation For 324,000 People Annually

Liberty Park, Sedalia's "Mecca" for outdoor-lovers, is open the year round, and the city's six additional parks are to be opened for public use as soon as park officials can open them.

Lloyd R. Black, park superintendent, said Friday that most of the parks, Vermont, Washington, Hubbard, Housel, Center and Covered Bridge parks, will be opened by May 15. All of the parks are to be opened by June 1, Black said.

Liberty Park, although it has been open for public use all year, will have some notable improvements. The Memorial Rose Garden will have not only the 120 rose bushes previously reported, but will contain 400 bushes.

Only ten or 12 remain to be planted to complete the garden. The roses in this garden were furnished by individuals in memory of some loved one. Each plant will be plainly marked with the name of the rose and the honored person.

A new combination band and recreation platform will be in use this year, across the park from Convention Hall. This platform is made up of a circular concrete platform with a bandstand available. It will be used for various recreational activities such as roller skating and square dancing. The bandstand will be used for the regular Thursday night concerts.

There will be increased picnic facilities to accommodate the ever-growing crowds which visit the park during the summer months. Last year, in addition to those using the two swimming pools, there were about 324,000 visitors. A few were from out of town, but they were mostly Sedalians, Black said. Based on the population of Sedalia, residents of the city visited the park about 13 times each, it was estimated.

Convention Hall itself has been improved somewhat. There has been an enlargement of the men's rest room. This improvement more than doubles the space in the old rest room. The work was done during the winter by park employees at a cost of not more than $700 to the city. This includes all materials. The ladies' room upstairs was not improved, but plans are under way to improve the facility.

The Liberty Park pool and Hubbard pool will both open on May 30. The pools are being cleaned and made ready for use now. Black said an accurate count was kept last year, and more than 58,000 people went swimming in Sedalia parks.

The miniature locomotive and train begins operation today. This ride is located near Convention Hall and is familiar to most Sedalians. It is a scale model of the old-time steam trains so familiar to Sedalians.

Regular park maintenance has been carried on throughout the year and the park is kept clean at all times. The baseball park fence is now under repair, 3,000 small flowers have been set out, 100 dogwood trees have been planted, 3,000 small flowers have been planted, and 50 trees of other types have been planted. Black said the trees, other than the dogwoods, were set out under the park's plan of annual replacement, keeping young trees growing to replace older trees which die or become dangerous and have to be cut down.

The same type maintenance has been going on at all parks. At the Covered Bridge Park, the Water Department is cooperating in maintaining the facility. The Water Department has installed two rest rooms for use this season.

Black said there are other improvements in the planning stage, and that the Park Board is waiting to see how much money is budgeted in this year's budget, which will be published about June 1.

He added that the park officials are expecting a record number of visitors this year, and has prepared for them. Already there have been 109 activities in Convention Hall since October. As of today, there will have been an even dozen baseball games this season. All evidence points to a season of relaxation.

No Time for Neglect

Sun, Sand and Salt Are Summer's Skin Sorrows

Sunny summer is the time for a gay and carefree life, but it is not the time to neglect your skin. Outdoor living may make you look hale and hearty but it can seriously deplete the natural oils that keep skin soft, smooth and supple.

It pays to take some simple precautions to protect your skin and keep it in good condition while you have fun.

Experts for a toiletries firm say the best way to avoid a dry, flaky summertime skin is by frequent use of a lotion. It guards against the drying effects of wind and water, sun and sand and lubricates the skin. In this connection, they suggest particular attention to face and neck, hands, arms and elbows, knees, ankles and legs.

Makers of Trushay offer some skin care advice: Tan if you wish, but don't burn! Be sensible about exposure. Acquire color gradually and make use of oils and lotions that block out the burning rays of the sun. These should be applied frequently—every half hour or so at first.

Bear in mind that you can burn even on an overcast day, that reflected glare from water increases the chances of burning and that blondes and redheads require more protection than their darker-skinned brunettes sisters.

If you should get mildly sunburned, keep skin well lubricated with lotion or oil. Never attempt to open blisters. If burn is severe or extensive, see a doctor.

First, learn to recognize the plants. An encyclopedia or first aid manual will help you identify them. Second, as a precaution after a day in the woods, wash exposed areas thoroughly with hot water and plenty of soap. Then, sponge skin with rubbing alcohol, rinses, and dry.

Should poison ivy or other plant poisoning develop, try to avoid scratching. This only aggravates and spreads the condition. Calamine lotion will relieve the itching and burning.

Insect bites are another form of skin irritation. When in a mosquito area, use an insect repellent or insecticide spray. A paste made of baking soda and cold cream or a compress moistened with ammonia water gives some relief. Calamine lotion will ease itching. For bee and wasp stings, applications of ice or ice water help.

HOME AWAY FROM home may be in the backyard. A Midwest couple built a garden house for out-of-doors play and entertainment. It houses exterior closet for convenient garden equipment, potted plants, TV, sleeping cots and barbecue accessories. Wall and roof are of special tempered hardboard to withstand bad weather.

A Home Away From Home

Old-Fashioned Summer Home Now Yard Cottage

The old-fashioned garden house, with a few refinements, may be coming back. At least, the thought is intriguing.

A young couple in a northern Indiana city did more than think about a second or summer home in their backyard. They built their own playhouse for slightly more than $1,000 for materials.

Built on a concrete slab 16 feet square, a typical summer room like theirs can give much pleasure to the family.

The versatile garden house is fully screened, has an inside closet for informal dining equipment and cooking utensils and another closet with an outside entrance for garden tools.

Curved panels of tempered hardboard form the unusual roof, which was an experimental installation. The owners say it has worked out nicely. To form the roof, panels of Masonite 3-16 inch, tempered preswound 4 feet wide and 10 feet long were sprung into position between the rafters so they arched in their long dimension. The edges were held by pieces of 1x2-inch lumber grooved and nailed near the lower parts of the rafters.

Later, the roof panels were bolted together in the center with 5-inch strips of the tempered hardboard. Perforated strapping then was applied under the rafters to assure their true alignment in the center. The roof has a four-inch pitch, with drainage holes drilled at the low end. After the roof joints were caulked the panels were painted with aluminum paint to reflect the sun's rays.

Discretion Is Necessary On Camp Trip

People who like to do things on the spur of the moment often wonder why they get into so many "humorous" scrapes.

Campers who take a what-the-hell attitude may find themselves damp, lost, hungry or just plain miserable.

According to National Recreation Association, planning ahead is a big factor for a good time. Families traveling by car and planning to spend a night in a state shelter obviously should take their shelter with them. Surprisingly, many don't.

For any camper there is a triple-threat item to take along, even when the pup tent is back home in the closet. This is a bandana. A "camper's best friend" can be a potholder, brow wiper, towel, lunch pail or treasure chest.

Basic supplies may include a poncho, or light tent, tent pegs, length of sturdy clothesline, sleeping bag, box with hinged side to make a cupboard and to carry food and cooking equipment. Also, pack nested kettles, a skillet and portable grill.

New campers may check with the Chamber of Commerce or their state's vacation information service for news of camping areas and facilities in state, national or county parks. The National Park Service in Washington also provides information as do tour services of major oil companies.

Experts at the National Recreation Service tell neophytes to practice camping close at home and test equipment before setting out on a trip. Don't plan to pitch a tent if you've never pitched one or to cook over an open fire if you have never done it. Even though the grass is greener elsewhere, start in your own back yard.

Follow a Plan To Make Picnic Occasion Easier

Here are some tips to make the picnic occasion easier:

SANDWICHES: For cold meat sandwiches, have meat sliced thin and spread with mustard or other seasoning condiment. Fold meat with spread sides together and place in buttered bun. This way the meat is seasoned, but the bread does not become soaked. Buns are a pleasant change from sliced bread. Wrap sandwiches individually in plastic wrap or waxed paper.

SALAD: Chill well and pack in to lidded paper container. Macaroni and vegetable salad is a variation to enjoy occasionally.

BEVERAGE: Take a not-too-sweet beverage with sugar and lemon. Ice well and include plenty of paper cups.

LEMONS: Cut into serving-size wedges and pack into small lidded paper container.

SUGAR: Carry in labeled lidded container.

CAKE: Cut cake into serving size pieces. Wrap pieces in plastic wrap or waxed paper and rearrange in original shape on paper plate.

WATERMELON: Cut into serving size pieces and wrap in plastic wrap. Rearrange in original shape. Then wrap in newspaper to keep cold.

TOMATOES AND FRUIT: Wash tomatoes and fruit well and take "as is" to be eaten out of hand.

DEVILED EGGS: Place cut sides together and wrap each egg individually in waxed paper. Carry in lidded paper container.

LETTUCE FOR SANDWICHES: Separate and wash leaves. Drain and chill well. Store in refrigerator and carry to picnic in plastic bag, adding it at the picnic for complete freshness.

Logs Do the Job

If your fish pond walls cracked during the winter remember this tip for next year. Float a few logs or timbers in the pond. The wood acts as a cushion and will take up the pressure as the water expands in freezing weather.

On Summer Trips

A Little Advance Planning Will Assure a Happy Baby

ALL TRAVELERS need spares, especially Baby. Experienced Mother can change tot in car during travels using disposable diaper pad under regular diaper. Supply of disposables means less washing worries. For Baby's sake, don't plan while car is moving.

Though a baby may not be able to put it into words, he also would like to go along on vacation trips and weekends to share the family fun. A little careful planning in advance will assure per service where available, since any diaper they provide goes well with the pants and can be combined with the pad.

Families traveling by bus, train or airplane will find several conveniences available.

Many buses have bottle warming service and on long runs hostesses are on hand to help out. At bus terminals managers act as "trouble shooters" to iron out any special problems or to meet any needs that may arise. Railroads also make a special effort to accommodate children. Some terminals even supply baby sitting services for mothers who make stopovers. On some trains, hostesses will warm bottles and arrangements can be made to take care of baby if mother wants to eat alone in the dining car or just relax.

A baby harness completely familiar to the child is a good thing to take along on an auto or train as insurance against baby rolling out of bed during travel naps. Before the ride, let the little one get accustomed to the harness. Also, bring along a supply of baby food as well as your own can opener and silverware for sanitation. The cans are heated in boiling water and baby fed right from them for convenience.

Check with your pediatrician to see if you can use canned milk in baby's formula. If so, you can fill bottles with sterile water for several days' use and add freshly opened canned milk as needed. A several-day supply of sweetened water also helps in case your baby is sensitive to changes in water.

One more thing—Relax. Babies are quick to sense tension and they are easily upset by it. So whatever happens, enjoy your trip and so will your baby.

New Series In Insurance Is Introduced

The Eisenstein Agency for Mutual of Omaha and its associates recently returned from Springfield, where a New Golden Opportunity Series of plans were introduced. This new series, an advanced health insurance plan, is issued in celebrating Mutual of Omaha's Golden Anniversary.

Those attending the Springfield meeting from this area were: Harold L. Silberstein, Burris Carter, Don Lamm, Jr., Mrs. Lily Thomas, all of Sedalia; Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Ansell, Clinton; Mrs. Mattie Helmsmith, Moberly; and Mr. and Mrs. David Eisenstein. Other Missouri agencies in attendance, were the H. F. Quigley Agency of Jefferson City, the L. V. Ewing Agency of Springfield, and the Joplin District Agency.

The home office director of sales training for Mutual of Omaha, Hugh McAtter, together with W. S. Flannery of the agency department and Bill Palais of the underwriting department, presented the new Golden Opportunity Plan to the joint meeting of the agencies. These new plans are now available to the public.

Warm Weather Gives Fido a Hard Time

Dog feeding breaks down into three problems when warm weather comes. A dog may have gained too much weight and become sluggish during the winter, or he may be boarded during your vacation and require special diet.

The Atlas Research Center recommends three diets for these conditions which every little doggie can get from his personal veterinarian. These are obeso-diet for the overweight, proto-diet to keep up his energy, and basodiet, a substance diet for a boarding dog.

Attention Will Go a Long Way Toward Pleasant Days Afloat

Most boat owners pamper their craft with the dutiful attention accorded a boy's first love. Spring time is tune-up time. Attention to myriad detail will go a long way toward pleasant days afloat.

If you're a salt-water skipper and you neglected to wash your craft thoroughly before storage last fall, do the job now. Wash down the hull with warm water, a good detergent and a soft cloth to remove brine and marine life. Dry the washed hull with a chamois to avoid streaking with stains.

Give corrosion, an ever-present menace, careful attention. Hardware should be examined for pitting, wear and possible replacement and treat turnbuckles and movable parts with a penetrating oil. A liberal application of oil will unlock frozen and corroded hardware.

Check anchor line and mooring lines for wear or abrasion. Make certain extra line is aboard for use as bow and stern painters. Air tarpaulins, convertible canvas tops and seat cushions in the sun, a sure bet against mildew and rot. Finally, make certain the bilges are free of oil, grease and gasoline.

And once on the water, remember the best friend to a boatman is the Coast Guard Auxiliary, civilian adjunct to the United States Coast Guard. Primary purpose of the Auxiliary is to promote safety afloat and the CGA offers a program of free courtesy examinations made upon request of the boat-owner.

Almost every harbor in the country has its local Coast Guard Auxiliary unit. Every boat owner whose craft is judged safe is awarded a decal, or "stamp of approval," by the Coast Guard Auxiliary.

Requirements for Class A outboard craft (boats less than 16 feet in length) are one Coast Guard-approved life saving device for each person aboard; a combination light mounted forward in the boat, showing red to port and green to starboard and visible for a distance of one mile off the bow to the beam; a white stern light visible two miles from any compass point.

Outboard craft in Class I (boats longer than 16 feet) require: the same equipment as Class A, with the addition of a hand, power or orally-operated horn or warning device capable of sustained 10-second soundings with a range of one-half mile, and a portable fire extinguisher.

In addition both classes must have a minimum of two accessible and usable distress flares, one paddle or oar, an anchor, adequate anchor line and a pumping device.

Backyard Pool Calls For Safety Fencing

There is more to a backyard swimming pool than a hole in the ground. For privacy and for safety, pools usually call for a form of enclosure or fencing.

Rugged wire fences with padlocked gates to keep children out of the water when they are alone are popular.

Also popular are circular enclosures. These can be made of fiberglass reinforced plastic panels which are pliable.

One way to build a circular enclosure, according to David S. Perry who heads Filon Plastics, is to use standard corrugated panels. These bend easily and are nailed to a circular framework of standard 2x4-inch end posts and 2x2-inch studs.

Another effective technique is a basketweave effect. Flat plastic panels bought in rolls are woven around uprights.

COORDINATES are still on the men's fashion scene. Pale blue, white and black plaid shirt tops tailored shorts. Both of miracle cotton, by Van Heusen, require little or no ironing.
